GOVERNOR DEFIES LYNCH MOB

Morrow of Kentucky Saves Negro Slayer From Men Bent on Vengeance

By International News Service.

Frankfort, Ky., Feb. 5.—Governor Morrow today dispersed a mob of hundreds of men determined upon the lynching of Will Luckett, a returned negro soldier.

Luckett had confessed to the murder of ten-year-old Geneva Hardaman.

The negro had been rushed to the Frankfort reformatory from the Nicholasville jail to escape a mob. Hundreds of men organized at Lexington and proceeded to Frankfort.

Governor Morrow was told of the coming of the mob. All guards and police available were quickly thrown about the reformatory, heavily armed, and special deputies were sworn in. The Governor ordered the power shut off on the interurban lines, preventing the major portion of th mob from quickly reaching the State capital.

Governor Morrow proceeded by automobile to a hill overlooking the city and awaited the mob. Early today the Governor addressed the mob, telling them that should they attempt to storm the reformaory they would walk into a death trap.

He assured them justice would be done, through due process of law, and ordered the mob to disperse, which it did.

Two Charges, Assessed $10.

Louis Smith, an East Boston storekeeper, was fined $5 today for measuring vinegar with a milk bottle and $5 for selling molasses vinegar for cider vinegar.

Applaud Walsh and Reed at Boston American Rally

"Awake, men!"—Senator David I. Walsh.

"Let the people decide!"—Senator James A. Reed.

As with these phrases the two chief speakers at the Boston American's unprecedented monster public mass meeting at Tremont Temple, delivered the final words of their messages against the League of Nations, thousands of men and women, crowded into every available inch of space in the great auditorium, rose to their feet and vigorously waving American flags, cheered and shouted.

Outside the Temple thousands of other men and women gathered in Bosworth place, despite a chilling wind from the northeast, which could not chill their enthusiasm, cheered repeatedly speeches of Attorney Thomas H. Mahony and others, and before the evening was over, speeches by Senators Walsh and Reed.

No other public meeting in Greater Boston in recent years can compare with that held under the auspices of the American in Tremont Temple for Americanism against the League of Nations.

In attendance, in the brilliance of the oratory, the keenness of the wit, the logic of the arguments, the intense, breathless interest of the auditors, the fiery enthusiasm of the

HEAVY TOLL IN TIDAL WAVE

Many Fatalities and Great Damage in French Society Islands

By International News Service.

San Francisco, Cal., Feb. 5.—Many lives were lost and great damage was done to cocoanut plantations by a hurricane and tidal wave, which visited the islands of Makatea and Moorea, in the French Society Island group, on the night of January 23, according to reports reaching here with the steamship Tofua, in port today.

SHARP DECREASE IN GRIP CASES

Figures for State Show Falling Off of 327; Boston Reports 616 in Day

There were reported to the State Health Department today 1,879 cases of influenza in Massachusetts, 616 being in Boston. Yesterday's report showed 2,206 cases in the State and 634 in Boston. The figures show a decrease in the State at large, but little change in Boston.

A report from the office of the Surgeon-General in Washington gives 96,000 cases in the country, as against 146,000 reported on January 21. Chicago and New York are recovering from the epidemic, but the West and South are reporting many cases.

Eleven deaths from influenza in Boston were reported in the last twenty-four hours. Nineteen new cases of pneumonia and as many deaths from this accompanying disease were noted.

The influenza situation in Cambridge shows a slight improvement. Thirty-nine new cases were reported today, with three cases of pneumonia. One death from influenza and five from pneumonia have resulted in the last twenty-four hours.

Public wakes and funerals for persons dying of influenza have been forbidden by the Woburn Board of Health. Twenty-two new cases have been reported to the Woburn authorities within the last twenty-four hours.

TWO GIRLS WANTED BY POLICE FOUND

Two girls wanted by the police of Quincy and Brockton were arrested in Chelsea today by Patrolman Herbert J. Bradley. Edith Grow, eighteen, wanted in Brockton for violating her probation, was found at her home, No. 181 Franklin avenue, and with her was Florence Orte of Quincy, wanted on the charge of abandoning her child.

REVOLT IN GERMANY FEARED

Anti-Allied Outbreak Felt to Be Imminent Over Demand for High Officials

Amsterdam, Feb. 5.—The German government fears an anti-allied outbreak as a result of the demand for more than 800 German military and officers of state for trial before a war guilt court, according to advices from Berlin this afternoon.

Minister of Defence Noske issued a proclamation warning the Berlin public of the consequences that would ensue if the foreign missions were attacked.

Berlin, Feb. 5.—The German cabinet is preparing a note to the allies pointing out the fatal consequences it fears would ensue if the German officials, sought for trial before a war guilt court, are given up. The ministers have given almost continuous consideration to the allies' demand since it was received here.

GIRL OVERCOME BY SMOKE DURING FIRE

Ellen Carroll, age fourteen years, is in the City Hospital, as the result of being overcome by smoke during a fire at No. 41 Walnut street, Charlestown, early today. Mrs. Mary Carroll, the mother, who owns the house, was attempting to thaw frozen water pipes. The damage was estimated at $300.

$2,000 Fire on Cornhill Street

Employees of Allen Brothers, dealers in stationery and hardware specialties, were driven to the street today by a fire which started on the ground floor of the building at No. 17 Cornhill and spread through the walls to the upper stories. The damage was estimated at $2,000.

Observe Lincoln Day, Urges Gov. Coolidge

Governor Calvin Coolidge today issued the following Lincoln Day proclamation:

The first duty of a government is to be true to itself. This does not mean perfection. It means a plan to strive for perfection. It means loyalty to ideals.

The ideals of America were set out in the Declaration of Independence and adopted in the Constitution. They did not represent perfection attained, but perfection planned. The fundamental principle was freedom. The fathers knew this was not yet apprehended. They formed a government firm in the faith that it was ever to press toward this high mark.

In selfishness, in greed, in lust for gain, it turned aside. Enslaving others it becomes itself enslaved. Bondage in one part consumed freedom in all parts. The government of the fathers ceasing to be true to itself was perishing.

That this dear land of ours

KNOWS THE GUILTY ONE, SHE SAYS

Witness in Preliminary Case Can Identify Clancey Slayer; New Hunt Begins

Joseph Sammarco of No. 7 Cross street, East Boston, indicted for the murder of Patrolman William G. Clancey at Roughan's Hall, Charlestown, January 22, is not guilty, according to testimony in the Charlestown Court today by Miss Catherine Fallon of No. 218 Cambridge street, West End.

Miss Fallon was a government witness. In the course of cross-examination by Attorney Thomas J. Grady, counsel for Sammarco, she testified that she attended the dance at which the patrolman was killed, saw the quarrel and stood a few feet from him when he was shot down. She said that Sammarco stood beside her and had no part in the attack.

KNOWS MAN BY SIGHT.

The girl said she knew the actual murderer by sight and that he was also of Italian descent.

While no official statement was issued by the police, it is believed that the city is now being combed for the man described.

Miss Fallon was one of the first witnesses for the government in the cases of Philip W. Poccia and Frank Rotondo, co-defendants with Sammarco on the murder charge. The case is being heard by Judge Charles A. Sullivan.

Asked as to Poccia's part in the affair, she admitted that she heard him tell some girls to "get their clothes, as there was going to be a murder." She said young Poccia emphasized this, and insisted that several girls go home just before the killing.

66 TEACHERS ILL OF GRIP IN PROVIDENCE

Providence, R. I., Feb. 5.—With sixty-six teachers victims of influenza, it was feared today that public schools might have to be closed. Ten deaths and 325 new cases were reported in the last twenty-four hours in Newport the epidemic is increasing, with a jump from ten to ninety-eight new cases in twenty-four hours.

BOLSHEVIK ARMY MARCHING ON PERSIA

London, Feb. 5.—The War Office announced today that 7,000 Bolshevik troops led by officers of the old regime were advancing every week toward the Persian frontier. It added that a special train from Moscow was carrying officials, including Germans, towards the Afghanistan frontier.

Outstanding Facts of the Great Storm

Worst storm since 1898.

Schools throughout Greater Boston and southern New England closed.

Some Boston stores close early. Department stores and factories closed Saturday.

All Boston city departments closed at 3 p. m. About 5,000 employes were affected.

Fall River line steamer Maine ashore with four passengers in Long Island Sound.

Trains stalled in drifts at Weymouth, Braintree, North Truro, Waltham and Plymouth.

Narrow Gauge service suspended, with Winthrop and East Boston washed by extremely high high tides. Tremendous damage done by high water at Coney Island and Brighton Beach, New York, with waves thirty feet high.

Squantum cut off by storm, with the only provision store closed, the proprietor being a resident of Dorchester.

Fire engine No. 17 of Meeting House Hill, responding to an alarm, stalled at Field's Corner. Crew forced to shovel path to the station.

Thomas Rose of South Boston, blinded by [illegible], was knocked down and injured by a street car.

Scituate Harbor frozen over for the first time since 1880.

No vessels entered or left the port of Boston.

Large chimney on Mattapan square building blown down.

Automobiles and trucks abandoned by drivers at Orient Heights.

Winthrop firemen secure pungs for fear motor apparatus would be helpless.

Almost all traffic policemen relieved from duty in Boston. Others relieved every half-hour.

Hull cut off, with waves crashing over the seawall and breakwater at Green Hill. Sea over railroad tracks at Stony Beach.

Mail carried from Hingham to North Cohasset in pungs.

PROBE 'SCANDAL' IN WHISKEY

Huge Withdrawals From Bond by "Hair Tonic" Makers Cause Investigation

By International News Service.

Washington, Feb. 5.—Enormous withdrawals of whiskey from bonded warehouses by alleged "flavoring extract" and "hair tonic" manufacturers upon such a scale that it may reach the proportions of a scandal has led to a probe by Prohibition Commissioner Kramer.

The outcome probably will be the revocation of large numbers of permits issued by various collectors to embryo establishments that have sprung up since national prohibition went into effect.

Most of the places probed are said to be factories in name only, and exist as a means through which the prohibited alcohol can be secured. Discovery of "rings" of bootleggers in New York, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Chicago, Baltimore, St. Louis, Cincinnati and a score of other cities developed wall-or-marked plots to obtain liquor by fraudulent means.

It is probable that large bonds put up by many so-called "manufacturers" as a guarantee of good faith will be forfeited. Making of false affidavits is covered by other penalties, including imprisonment.

EMERGENCY BOARD TO FIGHT WALTHAM GRIP

An emergency board has been formed in Waltham to help combat the influenza epidemic. Several committees have been appointed, the chairman of which are Nursing, Mrs. Frank Barnes; food, Mrs. Henry C. Eaton; supplies, Mrs. P. Mansfield; transportation, Mrs. C. Clair, and cooperation with other societies, Miss Mildred Hill.

SUMMER RESIDENCE OF CARDINAL RANSACKED

Marblehead police are investigating a break into the Summer home of Cardinal O'Connell at Devereux Rock, which has just been discovered. The house was ransacked, but nothing appears to have been taken.

THREE ROXBURY STORES ROBBED

Burglars Remove Glass Panel of Door to Effect Entrance in Each Case

At least three small stores in Roxbury were robbed between Tuesday night and Wednesday morning, it was learned today. The stores are on Blue Hill avenue and not far from Police Station No. 9 at Dudley street and Blue Hill avenue. In each instance the burglars entered the store by removing the glass panel in the front door. They replaced the glass on leaving.

D. F. Arthur's grocery store at No. 1317C Blue Hill avenue was entered. The intruders found only $3, but may have taken goods also. Samuel Rocos' drug store at No. 1[illegible] and that of Joseph McCaba, fruit dealer, at No. 109, also were entered. In the former cigars were taken, and in the other a small quantity of silver was stolen.

FACE GRAND JURY FOR TRANSPORTING LIQUOR

Guiseppe Gardano of Havre street, East Boston, and Arthur Macik of Webster avenue, Cambridge, were arraigned before United States Commissioner Hayes today, charged with possessing and transporting liquor. Both were held in $500 for the Grand Jury.

ATTACKED IN TREMONT STREET OFFICE

W. A. Blumenthal was brutally beaten in his office at No. 1 Tremont street today by an unidentified assailant whose motive was evidently robbery. When he recovered consciousness the men was gone. The room had been ransacked, but nothing was missing. Blumenthal is at the Relief Hospital with wounds about the head and shoulders.

HOUSE PASSES $88,000,000 DEFICIENCY BILL

Washington, Feb. 5.—A deficiency appropriation bill carrying about $88,000,000 passed the House this afternoon. An amendment appropriating $1,000,000 for repairs to navy yards and docks, offered by Representative Tinkham, was defeated.

BLIZZARD WORST IN YEARS

Ship Ashore; Stores, Schools, Factories Closed; Heavy Gale Off Coast

Reports of at least one vessel ashore, complete paralysis of shipping, stalled trains and general disruption of steam railroad and trolley car service marked the progress today of the worst blizzard that has hit this section since 1898.

Driven by a forty-mile northeast gale, increasing to fifty miles off the Cape, the heavy snow forced the closing of schools in Greater Boston and southern New England and prevented thousands from getting to work.

The New London steamship Maine, believed to have sailed from New York last night, was reported aground on Execution Rock, Long Island Sound, with all lights out, early today.

No details could be obtained as to whether the Maine carried passengers, or if her condition was serious. Tugs were sent to her assistance from New York.

The Cape received the brunt of the storm, the blizzard being centred at Block Island, where a gale of sixty-

LARGE CHIMNEY IN MATTAPAN BLOWN DOWN

High wind blew down a large galvanized chimney from the top of the Bartlett block, Mattapan square, early today. Fire recently practically destroyed the building, but left the chimney standing. A crew was sent by the electric light company to remove the chimney from the wires where it landed. The wires did not break.

EXCHANGE ON POUND RECOVERS TO $3.25

New York, Feb. 5.—The exchange rate on the English pound sterling showed recovery today selling at $3.25 at noon, against $3.13, the new low record established Wednesday. The opening quotation was $3.27½.

five miles an hour made the heavy snowfall blinding.

SHIPPING TIED UP.

No vessel entered or left Boston, although a number were due, and many were reported tied up outside. Coal barges from the South en route to this city were tied up at Vineyard Haven, and a fleet of tugs and barges rode out the storm in Buzzards Bay.

Trains were reported stalled in Weymouth, Braintree and Waltham, while the express which left Provincetown shortly before 6 a. m. was reported buried in an eight-foot drift at North Truro.

Rhode Island, Connecticut and the South Shore were also badly hit, reporting more than a foot of snow and high winds. The Scituate and Hull life savers declared that their patrols could see only 200 or 300 yards, and that the storm was the worst since 1898.

A train was stalled at Seaside, near Plymouth, with snow drifts reaching to the windows. Railroad officials asserted that commuters wishing to reach their homes tonight had better leave early.

HARBOR FROZEN OVER.

Scituate harbor was frozen over for the first time since 1880, and the ice packs off the cape, which, it was reported, were beginning to break up in the recent warm spell, gripped the coast again.

Twenty-five hundred men, with 250 teams and trucks, were put on the downtown streets of Boston by Public Works Commissioner Thomas F. Sullivan. As fast as they cleared the thoroughfares, however, the snow drifted in again.

According to the Weather Bureau, the storm will end some time during the night, with a change of wind from northeast to northwest. The official forecast was: "Snow tonight; clear or fair, with little change in temperature; Northeast wind, becoming northwest Friday."

At 9 o'clock five inches of snow had fallen in Boston, and according to the weather bureau this amount would be more than doubled before night.

At the same time Connecticut had been visited by a foot of snow and the local weather bureau predicted that the blizzard would grow worse during the day.

RAIN IN SOUTH.

The storm centralized in southern New England and the North Atlantic States, with a heavy rain falling in the South. The Boston & Maine Railroad reported little trouble north of Boston, and the Boston & Albany said its lines were clear west of Pittsfield.

Local trains, however, were badly affected with signals obscured and engines making little time. All local freights were cut off by the New Haven and their crews assigned to keeping switches clear.

Train 11 from Albany, due here at 8:10, was one hour and fifty minutes late, and all east-bound sleepers on the New Haven were two hours behind time.

The Fall River boat was unable to get away after the storm started, and a special train was substituted from that city to New York.

All railroads had snowplows working from the time the snow began to fall, but their efforts were almost futile, as the drifts swept in as fast as they could be removed.

ELEVATED HANDICAPPED.

The Elevated was handicapped more than by any storm in its history, according to the officials, the snow being damp, heavy and drifting. Men were removed from regular cars and placed on plows which experienced but little difficulty until 5 o'clock.

At this time the blizzard began to get ahead, and from then on the service was almost at a standstill.

From all sections of Greater Boston stalled cars were constantly reported, and many commuters were forced to plough through the drifts in order to get to their places of business. Numbers of girls and women refused to face conditions and returned to their homes.

At Chelsea both Elevated and Bay State cars were tied up at intervals, despite the constant efforts of snowplows, and many were forced to walk over the Meridian street bridge to East Boston.

On the Orient Heights to the Tunnel line walls of twenty-five minutes were experienced.

FIREMEN TAKE PRECAUTIONS.

Extra horses were assigned to Engines 9 and 40 and Ladder 2 in East Boston, and the Winthrop firemen secured a number of pungs in the fear that their motor-driven vehicles would be helpless.

Winthrop was particularly hard hit, and employes of the Narrow Gauge were busy practically all night attempting to keep the lines open. On the water side between Pleasant street and the beach the snow drifted so rapidly that the railroad men had much difficulty in keeping the tracks clear long enough for trains to pass.

JITNEYS AID IN LYNN.

In Lynn thousands of shoe workers and employes of the Electric Light Company were forced to walk when the Bay State service broke down. Jitneys did fairly good work in transporting a large number of the commuters.

The South Shore bore the brunt of the blizzard locally, and Quincy car lines were kept open only by superhuman efforts. All outside workers at the Fore River yards were forced to quit, and all the employes were delayed in getting to work. No jitneys were running to Squantum and residents of that section were practically isolated.

$500 Cash Prize and 100 Medals for School Children

The Boston American Will Award Them for the Best Essays Written for Abraham Lincoln's Birthday Celebration

Attention, school children! Here is an important message for you:

Here is how you may compete for $500 in cash, the first prize, and the 100 silver medals the American offers:

The awards will be made to the writers of the best essays on the relations of the leading European nations towards the United States during Lincoln's time and—

The lesson of his words and his attitude on these situations applying to our time—to America and Americans today!

CONDITIONS OF THE CONTEST.

Each essay must not contain more than 1,000 words.

All essays must be in the American office by February 9.

Address the envelope to LINCOLN EDITOR, the Boston American, 80 Summer street, Boston 8, Mass.

The contest is open to school children of all ages and class rank. The age and class rank will be taken into consideration by the judges in deciding the winners. More will be expected of the older and higher grade children than the younger and lower grade children.

The idea will count as much as the phraseology. But clearness and directness of style will be expected from all contributors.

PURPOSES OF THE CONTEST.

The whole plan is to bring home to everybody in this great country the necessity of their living by the slogan AMERICA FIRST.

Americans must know what attitude European nations have had towards our country in the important crises of our history.

Let young Americans show those growing into citizenship with them and the older folk why we cannot depend upon European friendship or upon the attitude of any European nation as permanent.

Any one of the nations of Europe may be friendly towards us today, and any one, or all of them, may be hostile tomorrow.

America must depend upon itself, upon the spirit of its own people, the wealth and resources of its own country, the power of its own arms, and the independence and self-reliance of its own government.

In a phrase—AMERICA FIRST!

And, remember, your essays must be in the American office by February 9, when the $500 cash prize and 100 medals contest ends. You have a full week ahead of you—get busy!

Train Buried in Snow on Cape Cod Line

Sandwich, Feb. 5.—The blizzard is especially severe on Cape Cod. Reports from all sections of the Cape say that it is the worst storm experienced in many years.

A fifty-mile gale blowing off the coast since midnight has increased to sixty-four miles an hour and all shipping is endangered. Every coastguard on the cape station has been on duty throughout the night. So far no shipping has been reported in danger.

Drifts eight feet high cover some of the roads and railroad tracks through the cape towns. The express train which left Provincetown shortly before 6 o'clock is buried at Truro. A snow plow and wrecking crew has been sent from Middleboro to dig it out.

Nantucket and Martha's Vineyard is isolated from the mainland. No steamer will attempt to make the passages either way until the storm abates. A high sea is running on all parts of the cape coast. Life guardsmen say it is the highest for a score of years.

Big Coal Shipments Held Up By Storm

Boston coal dealers are greatly handicapped by the storm. Thousands of tons of fuel are tied up on stalled freight trains and on barges which have been forced to anchor in harbors along the coast.

Several barges which put into the Cape Cod canal are in danger of being trapped by ice cakes which have been carried into the canal by the high sea and wind.

The east end of the canal has already been jammed. Coal dealers, however, do not believe the storm will affect the consumer.

Boston Train Bound for Plymouth Snowed In

Plymouth was hard hit by the storm. The 6:30 train from Boston was snowed in at Marshfield, street cars were tied up and the population confined to their homes. Even the snowploughs were snowbound when they started out to clear the tracks.

Judge Webster Thayer was at the Superior Court at Plymouth, but there was an adjournment for the day.

Fitchburg Trolley Service Suspended

Fitchburg, Feb. 5.—Street car service between this city and other communities is at a standstill as a result of the worst snow storm in years. The steam railroad service has not yet been seriously affected.

Middlesex County Hard Hit by Storm

Middlesex County suffered greatly from the storm, and street railway service was demolished. Schools were closed in Arlington, Lexington, Bedford, Billerica, Acton and other places. Most of these towns were cut off by suspension of car service. Only a few trips were made over the Middlesex-Boston street railway lines. The main line of the Concord, Maynard and Hudson did not open until 9 o'clock, after snowploughs had cleared the tracks, only to have them covered again by the high wind. The Boston Elevated service was open between Arlington Heights and Harvard square.

Boston & Maine Trains Behind Schedule

All rail traffic through Medford, Malden, Melrose and Everett was slowed up by the snow storm. The "fast" local trains on the Southern and Portland divisions of the Boston & Maine came through West Medford a half-hour behind schedule.

The Bay State Melrose-to-Lynn line was completely tied up. The Boston Elevated lines to Malden, Melrose and Everett were "dead" for more than two hours, after a car was derailed at Winthrop square, Medford.

Scituate Harbor Frozen; First Time Since 1880

Scituate, Feb. 5.—Weymouth, Scituate and Hull lifesaving stations report that the worst storm since 1898, when the steamship City of Portland went down. The wind all along the South Shore has been blowing a gale of between forty and fifty miles, and the members of the lifesaving crews cannot see over 200 or 300 yards ahead.

Not a ship has been observed by the lifesaving crews Wednesday evening. The outer harbor at Scituate is completely frozen over, the first time that the inner harbor has been completely frozen since 1880.

In all the South Shore towns the drifts are between four and five feet high. All schools are closed in Weymouth, Hingham and Hull. There is no car service and only one train has been able to reach Boston. It is the worst tieup in the memory of South Shore commuters.

Snow a Foot Deep in Rhode Island

Providence, R. I., Feb. 5.—The Federal Express, eastbound, due to leave here at 7:30 a. m., was two hours late today owing to the storm. Rhode Island is buried under a foot of snow, and railroad officials predicted a tieup if the storm continues.

B. & A. Rotary Plow Out; First Time This Winter

Pittsfield, Feb. 5.—Electric railway service throughout Berkshire County is paralyzed today. Power at the central station here gave out for three hours and the storm got so much headway even plows became stalled.

The Boston & Albany Railroad ordered out its rotary for the first time this Winter to keep the Washington Park open.

There is great suffering among 260 influenza patients because physicians cannot reach them for lack of transportation. Practically no automobiles are running.

Trains from the West are two to three hours late. Telephone service is crippled because operators cannot reach the central exchange. Miss Mary A. Duffy walked in from West Pittsfield, four miles, through five-foot drifts, to her work. All Pittsfield schools are closed for the day.

Four funerals of pneumonia victims were postponed. Up to noon twelve inches of snow had fallen in Pittsfield, with a howling gale from the northeast.

Word reached this city from Peru that snow is on level with top of fences and it will take days to dig out the hill towns.

Squantum Cut Off; Lacks Protection From Fire

Squantum was entirely cut off, the road to Atlantic being made impassable by snowdrifts. The customary jitney service was suspended, and the community was without fire protection. At noon the only provision store was still closed because the proprietor, a resident of Dorchester, was unable to fight his way through the drifts.

Narrow Gauge Trains Forced to Quit

Winthrop was deprived of train service today, the Narrow Gauge being forced to give up the battle against the storm shortly before 8 o'clock. In addition to the heavy snowfall, the high tide driven by the gale, surged over the seawall and flooded cellars as far in as East Boston. A number of motor trucks and automobiles were abandoned by drivers who were unable to move them.

Dana Explains Delays on Elevated Lines

Edward H. Dana, general manager of the Boston Elevated today issued a statement regarding the conditions of service due to the storm. The statement follows:

"After strenuous efforts to restore conditions to normal after the previous siege of snow, ice and water, we are again confronted with the storm which the Weather Bureau now says will be a regular northeaster.

"At the present time there are 124 plows on the line, which means the removal of men from transportation services in order to keep the lines clear, and with snow remaining on the streets from previous storms once again brings the problem of interference from vehicles and the general slowing down of service.

"The only serious service delays during the rush hour in addition to the lack of service from men on plow work was the derailment of a two-car train on Commonwealth avenue, a trolley wire down on Broadway, Somerville, and the derailment of a car at Dover and Washington streets."

New London Traffic Crippled for Hours

New London, Ct., Feb. 5.—Snow, sleet and rain crippled steam and electric railway traffic here several hours today. Schools were closed. Many factories also were closed because enough employes to operate the plants were not on hand.

Judge Marooned, Quincy Court Remains Closed

Snow flakes got into the wheels of justice at Quincy today, and there was no session of Quincy District Court. Judge Albert E. Avery was marooned at his home in East Braintree by the storm. By arrangement with the lawyers, he postponed consideration of several cases until tomorrow.

Only One Car in an Hour at Broadway Station

South Boston street cars were so affected by the storm that in an hour only one car reached the Broadway transfer station, upper level. Trains in the tunnel ran on nearly regular schedule. The line to City Point was paralyzed and the Dudley street service demoralized. Persons walking from as far as Harrison avenue and Washington street to the Dorchester Avenue tunnel.

It took over three hours for a daughter of former Representative James F. Creed to come from Meeting House Hill in Dorchester to her father's office on Broadway, South Boston, where she works as stenographer.

Marblehead and Danvers Isolated by Storm

Salem, Feb. 5.—Marblehead and Danvers were practically isolated today by the blizzard. Train service was erratic and trolley service nonexistent. There was no school.

Deep Drifts Halt Clinton Trolleys

Clinton, Feb. 5.—Snowdrifts, four and five feet deep, put trolley service to Worcester, Leominster and Hudson out of commission early in the day. Both public and parochial schools omitted sessions.

PASSENGERS SWEEP SNOW OFF TRACK

When a small electric car became stuck on the slight grade at Warren and Monroe streets, Grove Hall, the conductor and passengers swept the snow from the rails in an effort to get the car going. The car was pushed into Grove Hall by another trolley car.

ENGINE 17 STALLED; DUG OUT BY CREW

While returning from a small fire at No. 1683 Dorchester avenue, motor engine No. 17 of Meeting House Hill district became stalled at Field's Corner. The crew were forced to shovel a path to the fire station.

STORM BLOCKS N.Y. TRAFFIC

Heavy Seas Cause Great Damage at Nearby Shore Resorts

New York, Feb. 5.—A raging blizzard of wind, snow and sleet has held this city in its grip for more than twenty-four hours. The sleet, freezing as it fell, completely paralyzed street railway traffic.

The heavy fall of snow was piled by the high wind into huge drifts and the street cleaning force was almost powerless to keep the main arteries of traffic open.

Telegraph and telephone communication was badly crippled and all trains arriving in this city from the West and from New England points were from thirty minutes to six hours late.

Thousands of commuters from New Jersey were held up. Huge ice floes in the Hudson River and the harbor made the ferry service hazardous and service on the Hudson tubes was impaired by lack of fuel at the powerhouses.

There were numerous accidents throughout the city. The streets were solid sheets of ice and the wrecks of overturned motor cars dotted the thoroughfares all the way from the Battery to the Bronx.

Trucking was practically at a standstill. The danger and discomforts of the storm were multiplied by the scarcity of fuel. Some of the powerhouses supplying traction lines had exhausted virtually all their reserve stock of coal today.

The public health department was also alarmed over the effect of the blizzard upon the influenza and pneumonia epidemic. The streets are in worse condition than they have been at any time this Winter.

The storm struck New York from the northeast with a thirty-mile wind which rapidly rose to the fury of a gale. The entire Atlantic coast to the Northeast and Southeast of this port was lashed, causing grave dangers to shipping.

The charitable institutions which care for the homeless were filled to capacity during the night.

Tremendous damage was done by high water at Coney Island and Brighton Beach. Waves thirty feet high rolled in from the Atlantic, isolating the bungalow colonies and many hotels. More than 100 bungalows were washed away.

The Steeplechase, with more than 100 guests was surrounded by a flood of water six feet deep. The Atlantic Bathhouse was destroyed with $150,000 loss and other property valued at more than $25,000 was wrecked.

The Pasadena Hotel, a small frame structure at Rockaway Beach, was struck by a giant wave and washed out to sea. Murray's Pavilion, nearby, was wrecked.

PERLEY SPIKER DECEIVED HER FOR A YEAR, SAYS MISS KNOWLES

LEARNED TRUTH AS HE SAILED

Pretty English Girl Believed Spiker Was Going to Wed Her

Fall River, Feb. 5.—"I do not think I should have been tempted and weak enough to sin, unless I thought that Perley Spiker would be my husband," said Miss Emily Knowles, twenty-two-year-old English girl, who became the mother of Spiker's child, in her first statement since coming to this country on her relation with the young aviator.

LOVED HIM NO LONGER.

"He never told me that he was married, though he never said he was not," she went on. "He never gave me a ring, but for a year, in Norwich, we kept company, and all the time I believed him single and that he would take me back to America as his wife."

Miss Knowles says that she did not know of Spiker's wife and child until the night before he left England. She said she has forgiven the father of her child, because of her previous great love for him, but that she would never feel the same toward him again, love having fled.

Of Guy Spiker, whom she expects to wed Monday, she said that upon first hearing of his offer to marry her, she had been moved to admiration by his evident self sacrifice and intention to partially right the great wrong done her by his brother. Since meeting Guy, she has come to care for him and feels happy with the marriage not far off.

HER FIRST SWEETHEART.

"Perley was my first and only sweetheart," she said.

When she came to this country the first man she met was Perley Spiker who told her of his brother and his intentions in regards to a marriage.

The girl says that her baby is recognized in England as a legitimate child, and that if she could not be married here, she would return to England where the boy can grow up bearing his father's name.

Path Clear for Spiker to Wed Miss Knowles

Washington, Feb. 5.—Guy Spiker, who plans to marry Emily Knowles, the English girl betrayed by his brother, today called upon Solicitor Abercrombie of the Bureau of Immigration to learn whether that bureau would interpose any objections to the marriage, inasmuch as Miss Knowles was permitted to enter this country on a temporary permit.

Commissioner Camsetti has taken the position that bureau should not interpose any objection to the marriage, and that the permit for the woman should be made permanent upon her marriage.

Spiker was told by the authorities that the Knowles case was closed definitely days and no further action would be taken until the temporary permit for entrance expires.

Spiker said that he planned to be married at the earliest possible moment.

GOODHUE NOW CHIEF OF QUINCY POLICE FORCE

Alfred W. Goodhue assumed the duties of chief of the Quincy force to fill the vacancy recently caused by the death of Chief Daniel H. McKay. Inspector Ernest H. Only 65 College Men Among 294 Solons

A statistician has figured out that of the 294 State officers, including the Governor, the Council and House and Senate members, only sixty-five went to college, while 149 had only a public school education.

But nearly every one is a "liner." In the House there are 35 Masons, 32 Odd Fellows, 26 Elks, 23 Knights of Pythias, 16 Knights of Columbus, 16 Grangers.

Thirty House members were born in foreign countries. Canada leads with 12. England has 5. 4 first saw the light of day in Sweden 3 in Ireland, 2 in Germany, 2 in Russia and 1 in Italy.

$3,000,000 IN WORK COMING TO NAVY YARD

Washington, Feb. 5.—Efforts of Representative Tague to secure additional work for the Boston Navy Yard, where there is said to be a slump, have borne fruit. Secretary of the Navy Daniels informed the Massachusetts Representative that the George Washington, which was used as the presidential transport, will be sent shortly to the Boston yard for extensive repairs. Other vessels will follow and the additional work immediately in sight for the yard will total between $2,000,000 and $3,000,000, it was stated.

CLAIMS ALLIES HAVE ABANDONED WILSON

Paris, Feb. 5. — "Pertinax" commenting today in the Echo de Paris upon Viscount Grey's letter defending the American peace treaty reservations expressed the opinion that the European Allies had abandoned President Wilson and were trying to unite the Republican majority in the senate.

Capt. Evans Promoted

Captain Thomas C. Evans, one of the senior police captains in the department, recently stationed at city prison, has been appointed division inspector by Commissioner Curtis.

One school boy was injured, and another boy and a teacher had narrow escapes when a ceiling in the George T. Angell School, Harrison avenue and Hunneman street, collapsed today.

Selpio Miller, eleven, colored, of No. 32 Hall street, was buried under a mass of plaster and extricated only after District Fire Chief Kenney and several firemen responded to an alarm.

The boy was taken to the City Hospital and treated for bruises.

The accident occurred in Room 8, on the second floor, a room about 28 by 30 feet.

Although the "no school" signal had been sounded on account of the storm, about a score of pupils who had not heard the bell had arrived as usual.

Only a teacher and two boys were in the room when the plaster fell.

The ceiling was of wire lathe. The two-story brick building was completed in 1913. Authorities are at a loss to account for the accident, and will investigate.

The teacher in charge of the room is Miss Emily A. Gunn, and the first assistant, Miss Katherine C. Coveney.

The school is used for special classes of boys.

Chairman Joseph P. Lomasney of the Boston schoolhouse commission requested Superintendent of Schools Frank V. Thompson to order the school closed until Monday, that a test might be made of the other ceilings. A preliminary inspection was made by Chief Inspector Joseph P. Butler and Schoolhouse Commissioner James J. Storrow. The section that fell measures about 24 feet by 26, practically the entire ceiling with the exception of a three-foot strip over the teacher's desk.

The building has wooden ceiling beams, to which the wire lathe ceiling is attached by staples. It is believed that the weight of the plaster pulled out the staples.

WOMEN'S ART WORK EXHIBIT TO CONTINUE

The exhibition under the auspices of the National Association of Women Painters and Sculptors will continue until February 14, at the Grace Howes Gallery, No. 146 Stuart street. Among those exhibiting are Marian Boyd Allen, Ruth Anderson, Gertrude S. Burns, Gertrude H. Fiske, Jean Nutting Oliver, Margaret Patterson, Mary B. Titcomb and Louise Allen.

Woman Urges Flash Signals to Mars

Cincinnati, Feb. 5. — Dot and dash signals and pictures outlined in electric lights are suggested as a means of communicating with Mars or Venus by Miss Annette Covington, artist and descendant of Robert Fulton, inventor of the steamboat. Miss Covington hit upon the idea after watching some children learning to spell by "taking a stitches from certain dots to other dots.

"Why not draw an imaginary background for our neighbors on the other planets," she says, "and give them some instruction by long and short flash signals. In time we might have the Martians' pictures of an earth city."

COAL WAGE DECISION BY LAST OF MARCH

Washington, Feb. 5. — Coal districts, surrounding the central competitive field, were taken under consideration today by the President's coal commission in connection with the adjustment of wages under the demands of the miners for a 60 per cent. increase with a six-hour day and five-day week. The commission expects to complete its hearings by March 15 and reach decisions by the end of the month.

The section that fell measures about 24 feet by 26, practically the entire ceiling with the exception of a three-foot strip over the teacher's desk.

'PHI GAMS' WILL MEET IN BOSTON ON FEB. 9

Phi Gamma Deltas from twenty-seven American colleges and universities will gather at the Boston Yacht Club Monday evening, February 9, for the first big "college parties" since before the war. There will be vaudeville stunts by men from Williams, Amherst, Dartmouth, Yale, Worcester Tech and M. I. T. Invitations have gone to prominent Phi Gams, including Vice-President Marshall, Governor Coolidge and Secretary of War Baker.

TO UNITE UNIONS AND FARMERS

Weary of Waiting for Change, They Will Go Into Business

Washington, Feb. 5.—Packing plants and stockyards owned and operated by the farmers and workers were advocated today by Warren S. Stone, chief of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, and president of the Plumb Plan League, after making the statement that "the government has done nothing to reduce the cost of living and will do nothing."

"The people must take the situation into their own hands," said the Brotherhood chief who began the cost of living agitation which led President Wilson to call the first industrial conference. "With nothing to expect from the government, they must find relief themselves."

Declaring the government's campaign to reduce prices "a waste of effort and money" the labor leader said, "the first actual steps to reduce the cost of living and to strike a body blow at profiteers" would be taken at the all-American farmers' labor co-operative congress to be held in Chicago February 12 to February 15, with delegates from farmers' organizations and labor unions from every section of the United States.

Machinery will be perfected for handling foodstuffs from the farm to the consumer through co-operative distributing centres.

The program calls for the establishment of banks, clothing factories, warehouses, cold storage, packing plants and other projects.

THREE REPRESENTATIVES TO SUPPORT WALSH

Three Democratic members of the House of Representatives today announced their candidacy for delegates to the National Convention and their intention to support Senator David I. Walsh for the Democratic nomination for President.

The announcements were made by Representative Frank A. Manning of Brockton in the fourteenth district, and Representatives Thomas A. Niland of East Boston and James J. Mellen of Charlestown in the tenth district.

Mr. Manning, for several years a member of the House, won distinction by his aggressive fights for public ownership or public control of the railroads.

DISAPPROVE SEPARATE PARTY FOR LABOR

Washington, Feb. 5.—Disapproval of the proposal for a separate labor party for political purposes in the United States was expressed here today by the members of the executive committee of the American Federation of Labor, meeting with other labor leaders. The conference was for the purpose of making plans for the national campaign. The committee indorsed the "bill of rights" for labor.

CHINAMAN TO ESCAPE POLICE LEAPS TO DEATH

Maids Identify Two Youths as Burglars

Charles Keefe and Stephen L. Kane, both of Cambridge, have been identified by two maids as the men who fled from their room at the Riverbank Court Hotel, corner of Massachusetts avenue and Charles River road, Cambridge, according to the police.

The young women, the Misses Eva Hanson and Helen Dalton, say the two men fled by way of a rear door.

One of the men found in the girls' room fled without his hat, both men had to be arrested. Miss Dalton says that she lost a pearl necklace. Nothing of value was found on the suspects.

PREDICT DROP IN COST OF LIVING

Boston Bankers See Hope When European Exchange Is Stabilized

Prominent bankers and business men of Boston declare that the collapse in foreign exchange should eventually lead to a noticeable drop in the high cost of living. Already the effect of the decline in the pound sterling, the franc and lire, is being felt in a curtailment of exports and an increase in imports.

The authorities at Washington and London have been tightening the screws on the mad whirl of prices upward. The Federal Reserve Board has been impressing most emphatically upon the banks the necessity of curtailing credit for non-essential industrial expansion. The board has been gradually pegging up its rediscount rates.

BANK RESERVES STRAINED.

Bankers say that was the only course for the board to take, since the reserves of the banks were being strained, and they needed and still must have strengthening to prevent a general demoralization.

Permitting the foreign exchange to seek its own level, say some of the foremost bankers in Boston and New York, is apparently "doing the trick." During the war, the pound sterling was artificially "pegged" through the efforts of J. P. Morgan & Co., so as to enable the allies to buy much-needed war supplies.

Exports of the United States grew by leaps and bounds and the gold of the world began to flow into America's coffers. Imports were comparatively small, because the European countries were busily engaged the demands of normal times. Shortly after the close of hostilities the "peg" in exchange was removed and the market is now going to where supply and demand sends it.

WILL HELP GOODS AT HOME.

Foremost merchants assert that much of the high cost of living in the world must be fully equal to that of industry to meet "the great foreign demand." Now the money of foreign countries is worth so much depreciated that it is prohibitive for them to buy many of the necessities of life from this country.

This means that there will be a material slowing down and goods will keep goods at home. With exports curtailed, the supply of home products will increase and prices are bound to fall, say astute students of economics.

With this state of affairs, Europe will be forced to produce; our dollar will buy more and our imports and exports will increase. As imports increase and exports decrease, the foreign exchange should automatically rise.

So far the export and import figures indicate that this is the first effect of the foreign exchange situation must ultimately have. In the month of December our exports to the United Kingdom, France and Italy totaled $2,000,000,000, a round figure, being $668,000,000 for December, as against $1,000,000,000 for the corresponding month of 1918. The excess of exports over imports in December, 1918, was $228,000,000, against $288,000,000 in 1918.

James J. Storrow, of the firm of Lee, Higginson & Co., and a director in numerous corporations, summed up the situation as follows:

"The drop in foreign exchange is but the natural working of a law of trade to right abnormal and unstable conditions. The European people must produce more things to send us, in order to keep on taking from us the things they really must have.

"Our purchases will increase as they make more things we want or can use, because the dollar over there is worth more than the dollar here. It will slow down industrial activity in this country some, without a doubt. But it is all natural and healthy, and there is no need of being disturbed about it.

"We can stand a reduction both in the cost of high living and the high cost of living. We will gain in an improvement in both these conditions."

IMPORTS TO INCREASE.

John H. Macomber, president of the Boston Chamber of Commerce, expressed similar views. He said he was opposed to artificially supporting exchange. "Let natural conditions govern and, like water, foreign exchange will seek its own level. Exports are bound to be reduced and imports increased by the existing situation and it will be only a matter of time when conditions will return to normal."

He said he was not prepared to say whether there was any hoarding of commodities in expectation of foreign buyers. Though if there has been to any great extent, he said, the depreciated exchange should force goods on the market with the result that living costs will decrease.

DENIES BEING DRAFT DODGER

Protege of Rich Woman Also Explains Suit for Auto Bill

New York, Feb. 5.—New episodes in the career of Robert L. Andrews, 23-year-old protege of wealthy Mrs. Agnes Suffern Taller Burnett, aged 61, came to light today. The first was that the youth was arrested in July, 1918, on a charge of draft dodging and sent to Camp Upton, where he was inducted into the service.

The second was that a check for $75, given by Mrs. Burnett to the Packard Car Rental Co., on June 13, last, for rental of a car used by herself and Young Andrews, was returned by the bank and that the company has brought suit to collect $635 due on this check and a note given by Mrs. Burnett to cover similar charges.

Andrews explained the draft dodging charge by saying that he had enlisted in the air service in June 1917, but was discharged in December, 1917, because of tuberculosis of the throat. He had registered with the local draft board in Austin, Tex., and was granted exemption. This expired in July, 1918. When he returned here he was arrested and was again discharged on account of the throat trouble.

"I have heard spiteful rumors about my arrest and my alleged discharge because I made a confession of certain moral delinquencies," added Andrews, speaking in his peculiar soft tones. "That is, of course, absurd."

Regarding the suit by the Packard Company, Andrews said:

"It is true that Mrs. Burnett owes that money. In fact, she is very much pressed for ready cash. I am managing her affairs now. In three years we have reduced her debts from $40,000 to $7,000 and we'll soon clear all of them.

Andrews expressed confidence that he would be cleared of the charge of forging Mrs. Burnett's name to checks.

VALENTINE PARTY AT NEWTON NURSES' HOME

A valentine whist and dacing party will be given at the Nurses' Home, Newton Hospital, February 13, by the Hospital Alumnae Association which consists of the nearly hundred graduate nurses. The proceeds will be used to aid the work of the hospital for which a fund is being raised by the association. This is the first party of the kind ever conducted by the association. The affair will start at eight o'clock. The committee in charge is: Mrs. F. D. Fowler of Watertown, chairman; Misses Anna K. Bogren, Anna M. Howe and Hughjohn McAfee. The public is invited.

125 NURSES ADDED TO INFLUENZA FIGHTERS

One hundred and twenty-five nurses belonging to the Instructive District Nursing Association, with central headquarters at No. 881 Massachusetts avenue are today acting as Boston's official home guard, servicing in influenza emergency cases all over the city. In response to a letter sent by Dr. William C. Woodward, city health commissioner, to Mrs. Ernest A. Codman, president of the Association, eleven graduate nurses and about fifty volunteer nurses have been added to the big working force and are now also allied with the city's safeguard for the emergencies.

RENEWS ATTACK ON SOCIALISTS

Peter W. Collins, in New York Case, Can't See Any Good in Them

By International News Service.

Albany, Feb. 5.—The investigation into the fitness of five Socialists to sit in the State Assembly was turned into an elementary school of socialism —its meanings and intentions—today at a session of the Assembly Judiciary Committee.

Peter W. Collins, Boston Knights of Columbus organizer and expert on socialism, was on the stand under cross-examination by Seymour Stedman, chief counsel for the Socialists. Collins renewed his criticism of the attitude of Socialists.

Stedman questioned Collins' fitness to testify as an expert on socialism and went into history to test him. He attempted to prove by Collins that the combined "mass action" of the French and English Socialists in 1914 prevented their respective governments from opening entering the American Civil War on the side of the South. Collins denied this.

Collins steadfastly refused to admit that there was any good whatsoever in the Socialist Party. Assemblyman Louis Cuvillier interrupted with the question: "Did the Socialist Party of America favor Germany during the war?"

"Unquestionably," was Collins reply.

"I challenge you to tell me any expression or utterance by any Socialist writer of prominence during the war that favored the Imperial German government," shouted Stedman.

"If you will furnish me the files of the New York Call, the Milwaukee Leader and the Chicago Daily Socialist, I will gladly do so," retorted Collins.

Stedman endeavored to show that Collins was wholly biased and prejudiced in his attitude towards Socialists.

"Do you belong to any secret society which has for its object opposition to Socialism?"

"I belong to the Knights of Columbus," said Collins, "which among other things has that for its object."

"Who pays you for your lectures against Socialism?"

"The Knights of Columbus."

LOYALTY URGED BY GOVERNOR COOLIDGE

might be returned to the house of its fathers, "that this nation, under God, shall have a new birth of freedom" a man child was born on February 12, 1809. Men called his name Abraham Lincoln. He was the incarnation of what America was to be. Through him the Almighty bestowed upon the nation a new birth of freedom.

In witness of her devotion to this great mercy, in testimony of her determination that our country shall ever remain true to herself, the Commonwealth of Massachusetts at the dawning of the day recedes the observance of that birthday.

Now, therefore, I, Calvin Coolidge, Governor of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, by authority of law, hereby set aside Thursday, February twelfth, current, as and enjoin its observance by her citizens as becomes a free people. Officiaries of a life of surpassing service, that being wise in his wisdom and gentle in his gentleness, they may take new resolution to hold our government true to itself forever.

CALVIN COOLIDGE.

CHARLES J. MARTELL FUNERAL TOMORROW

State and city officials will attend the funeral services tomorrow for Charles J. Martell, for many years secretary and member of the board of overseers of the Boston City club, who died yesterday morning at his home, No. 83 Orchard street, Jamaica Plain. Services will be held at 10:30 a. m. at St. Thomas' Church, Jamaica Plain.

Sentenced for Larceny.

Patrick Kelliher, Joseph Crowley and John Driscoll appeared before Judge Barnes in East Boston Court today and each received a suspended sentence of one month for the larceny of four hides, valued at $40.

138 Per Cent. Increase in Commodities

Wholesale prices of all commodities on December 31, 1919, showed an average advance of 138 per cent, since end of January, 1913, according to index of Department of Labor. Prices of food, clothing, fuel and house furnishing goods made their greatest advances in the past year and were steadily climbing at end of December. Reckoning the average of 1913 as 100, December wholesale prices of items directly entering into daily life of the people, would compare as follows:

	Food	Clothing	Light & Fuel	House furnish.	All commodities	Farm prods.	Foods & Agric. articls.	Metals & bldg. mats.	Lumber
March, 1917	160	164	188	132	161	163	199	110
November, 1918	206	256	171	228	206	221	188	164
1919:
January	207	234	170	218	203	222	172	181
February	196	223	169	218	197	218	168	163
March	203	216	168	218	201	228	162	165
April	211	217	167	217	203	235	152	162
May	214	228	167	217	207	240	152	164
June	216	232	170	233	207	231	154	175
July	216	282	171	245	218	246	158	188
August	227	304	175	259	228	243	165	209
September	211	311	181	262	220	228	160	227
October	211	311	181	264	223	230	161	231
November	219	325	179	299	230	240	164	236
December	234	335	181	303	238	244	164	253

Farm products, lumber and building materials show the same startling increase since the armistice. Taking 100 as par, the average in 1913, the December price would average as follows:

	1919	1918	1917	1916	1915	1914	1913
Lumber and bldg. materials	253	164	135	106	97	94	98
Metal and products	169	184	174	185	114	83	92
Farm products	244	222	206	142	103	99	101

Aside from metals the only group that has shown a decrease since cessation of fighting is that of drugs and chemicals. This group was at its crest in October, 1918, at 253, and in November, 1918, was at 215. From that figure it declined to 171 in July last and closed the year at 179. All other groups of commodities have kept on climbing.

TO PAY $5,000 FOR HOXIE CLEW

New York to Act as Police Fail to Find Trace of Slayer

By International News Service.

New York, Feb. 5.—The City Board of Estimate will offer a reward of $5,000 for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the murderer of seventeen-year-old Beam Constance Hoxie.

Alarmed at the ease with which the slayer had fiendishly attacked and killed his victim in the very heart of the city, District Attorney Swann proposed the reward to stimulate the search. Two suspects were released, having proved alibis, and the police are without a definite clew, although they have worked constantly since Monday evening.

The murderer disappeared as completely as though the earth had swallowed him, leaving no trace behind.

A special squad of forty detectives has been detailed to look up all persons who formerly lived with the Hoxie family in the apartment house at No. 72 West 89th street.

U. S. Wins Fight for Plum Island Land

The fifty-year-old dispute over the ownership of the land situated on the north end of Plum Island, Newburyport, on which the government maintains a light house and a life saving station, has been settled. The government is ceded fifty acres of the land. The agreement reached between the heirs of Moses Pettingill and Federal officials has been filed in the United States District Court.

SAYS RABINOFF GOT HER MONEY

Former Wife of Impressario's Brother Makes Charge in Boston Opera Case

Chicago, Feb. 5. — Where did Max Rabinoff get the money to buy the Boston Grand Opera company? This question was brought up here in the alimony suit of Mrs. Evelyn Carter Hart for $50,000 against her former husband, Attorney Samuel R. Rabinoff, brother of the impresario.

According to the bill filed by Mrs. Hart, the money was originally hers. She claims she was tricked out of it by her former husband who, in turn, handed it over to Max Rabinoff without her knowledge.

The creditor's bill filed by Mrs. Hart states that she inherited a large tract of Nebraska land from her father. Her husband induced her to sell it and in order to avoid certain attachment proceedings persuaded her to convey the land to his sister, Mrs. Sophie Adelstadt. The land was subsequently sold for $22,000. The part payment of $17,000 in the form of a check, the bill states, came into the possession of Samuel Rabinoff, who procured endorsement of his sister and cashed it. This was done without the knowledge of his wife.

Max Rabinoff, who was then in Chicago, was hard pressed for funds, according to the bill, and two weeks later appeared in Boston with a certified check for $13,000 with which he purchased the assets of the Boston Opera Company and "immediately joined it with his Pavolska dancing troupe."

Max and Samuel Rabinoff, Mrs. Adelstadt and another brother of theirs are made defenders in the suit.

TWO DRUGGISTS FINED $100 FOR "JAKEY" SALE

David Kliger, a clerk in a Bowdoin Square drug store, charged with making a sale of Jamaica ginger to Daniel McGarrigan of Pitts street, who was later found intoxicated in the street, was found guilty and fined $100 by Judge Murray in Municipal Court. He appealed.

Guirino Ciecherti, a Hanover street druggist, charged on two counts of unlawfully selling "jakey" and with keeping it for sale was fined $100 on each charge. He also appealed.

TO ASK SENTENCE FOR DE KAY GIRL'S UNCLE

Providence, Feb. 5.—Henry E. De Kay, uncle of Jeanne Anna De Kay, the heiress who disappeared from Hull House, Chicago, recently and who has not been found, will be brought before the Federal District Court for sentence in connection with the wrecking of the Atlantic National Bank five years ago, if United States Attorney Harvey A. Baker is successful in his motion before the Federal District Court Friday. De Kay was tried in 1914 and found guilty January 13, 1915, charged with misapplying funds of the bank.

MELROSE WANTS NEW $100,000 POSTOFFICE

WOULD RIDE TO MARS IN ROCKET

Aviator Is Willing to Take First Trip if Insured for $10,000

Philadelphia, Feb. 5.—Captain Claude H. Collins, president of the Aviators' Club of Pennsylvania, is willing to be the first man to undertake a one-way trip to Mars via skyrocket and hazard the chance of a hard bump at the end of the line if he is first enabled to appeal directly to the people of America in an endeavor to awaken them to the necessity of developing a stronger air force.

Other conditions laid down by Capt. Collins are: That he be permitted to assist in the construction of the rocket which has been suggested for the earth-to-Mars trip by a noted scientist; that a similar rocket be successfully landed on the planet previous to his start; that communication by radio, light, or other means be definitely established with the planet; that the feasibility of the rocket trip be agreed upon by a board of ten scientists and that insurance to the amount of $10,000 be taken out in favor of his heirs.

He further stipulates that the proposed leap into space shall take place not later than December 31, 1920.

Maybe You Are Missing Something

If you had lived in colonial days you would have had to use brooms made from the bushes that grew by the wayside. You would have spun your own flax and woven your own linen. You would have missed modern things, but you wouldn't have been the wiser.

Maybe you are missing something good to-day because you are clinging to the old idea that there is only one kind of fat for making butter. Modern science has made a new kind of butter from the fats of cocoanuts and peanuts combined with pasteurized milk. It is made for those who appreciate new things. It is called

First Prize
TRADE MARK REGISTERED U.S. PAT. OFFICE

The Modern Butter

It has a creaminess, smoothness and fine flavor all its own. It is wholesome, nutritious and delightful to the palate. First Prize is so good that thousands of families accustomed to the best buy it because they like its appetizing taste.

First Prize is pure and good. Some butters are made of cheaper materials and are kept sweet by the use of benzoate of soda. The prices of the butters are usually boosted to within one or two cents of First Prize. First Prize contains no benzoate of soda nor any other preservative. None is needed to keep it sweet.

Vose Player Piano

This perfect player is the choice of people who really know and appreciate tone value. It appeals to those who entertain a fine regard for quality.

The charm of the Vose Player lies in its tone, the beautiful Vose tone, with an expression that explains its remarkable national success.

Long before making a player the House of Vose was nationally famous for its Vose piano, which is the basis of its player.

A comparison—the played roll tells a stronger and more convincing story of its superiority than the written word—an upright piano and player in one instrument. Terms.

ISSUE CLOTHING TO VETERANS

Articles Needed to Complete Army Outfit Can Be Obtained In South Boston

Original discharge papers must be shown by former service men when applying for clothing issue at the Army Supply Base, South Boston, according to a statement made today by Colonel Hugh J. Gallagher, Zone Supply Officer. This must be done in order that a notation of the articles issued may be noted on the discharge papers.

According to orders from Washington each enlisted man who at the time of discharge, was not given one complete outfit of clothing by the government is entitled to make application at Section D of the Army Base, and, after making affidavit, may receive any of the following articles:

Overseas cap, for all enlisted men who had service overseas, one hat and hat cord for all others; olive drab shirt, service coat and ornaments, pair of pants, one pair shoes, leggings, waist belt, poncho, overcoat, two suits underwear, pair stockings, one pair gloves, barracks bag and a on the evenings of Feb. 9 and 10.

$50,000 if Mead Shuns Smoke and Drink

Rutland, Vt., Feb. 5.—Provided he abstains from liquor and tobacco and leads "an honorable Christian life," John Abner Mead, grandson of the late Governor John A. Mead of this city, will receive $50,000 when he is twenty-five.

The sum is in bonds, which will be held as a trust fund to educate the boy. The will, which has been probated, disposes of an estate of more than $1,000,000, all but $50,000 of which goes to relatives. The latter sum is left to the Ruthnd Community House. Other heirs are Mrs. Mead and Carl B. Hinsman, son-in-law of the testator and executor of the will.

gas mask and helmet to members of the A. E. F.

No enlisted man discharged during the war to accept a commission is entitled to the issue, it is stated.

With the exception of underwear and stockings, which are new, all clothing which is being issued, is reclaimed.

The annual minstrel show for the benefit of their charity fund will be given by the Chelsea Lodge of Elks on the evenings of Feb. 9 and 10.

LORD FRENCH TO QUIT OFFICE

With Secretary MacPherson Will Resign Because of Row Over Irish Policy

Dublin, Feb. 5.—Despite denials in the London press, it was learned from an authoritative source, that both Ian MacPherson, chief secretary for Ireland, and Lord French, the Lord Lieutenant, plan to resign soon. Mr. MacPherson's resignation is already understood to be in the hands of Premier Lloyd George.

A big difference of opinion has developed among the officials of Dublin Castle over the treatment of Sinn Feiners. Sir James H. M. Campbell, lord chancellor of the High Court of Justice, believes that the round-up of Sinn Feiners and the holding of prisoners without trial is illegal. He advocates their release. This view is opposed by the military group.

STRANDED SHIP HAS TO THROW COTTON OVER

Completing a seventy-six-day passage from Calcutta, the British steamship Yosemite has arrived here, having been ashore on Sokotra Island in the Gulf of Aden. About 500 bales of jute were jettisoned before the ship could be floated by a British war vessel and tug. The original shipment comprised 22,000 bales of jute and 1,000 tons of manganese ore with total valuation of $2,500,000.

Good-bye Dyspepsia

No More Gurgly Brash, "Lump of Lead," Bad Digestion, Heartburn or Stomach Troubles.

The man who can't help making faces at his stomach, the man or woman with a grouchy digestion, or with downright dyspepsia need fret no more.

The heaviest, richest dinners, the most unspeakable quick lunches, all can be taken care of without imposing on the stomach. A scientific digestive can do the digesting where the stomach either did not do it before or did it very imperfectly.

This is why the use of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets has become so universal among those who suffer from indigestion and dyspepsia.

Take one of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets after your next meal and if you are given to belching, sour rising, fermentation, heavy lumpy feeling in the stomach, indigestion, dyspepsia, loss of appetite or other such digestive derangements you will find at once a remarkable improvement.

They arouse the gastric juices and give the stomach the rest it needs before it can again be healthy and strong.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are for sale at all druggists at 50c a box.—Advertisement.

HISS AT NAMES OF ENGLISH

Thousands Show Feeling Towards Lloyd George and Other Cabinet Members

applause, the heartiness of the cheering, the bitterness of the hissing when various British advocates of the League were mentioned, and the unanimity of deep feeling against the covenant displayed by the thousands present, the meeting is without parallel in the history of public meetings in this city.

Long before 7:30, the hour set for the opening of the doors, thousands had gathered in front of the Temple, each eager to get a seat. Among them were some of the most progressive and brilliant minds of New England. Invited guests, who had come to register by their presence on the platform, visible protests against the League.

The opening of the doors was the signal for a grand rush for admittance. Within a very few minutes every seat, every bit of standing room, including the wide corridors, was full.

Preparations had been made for a big overflow meeting in Bosworth place. Several thousand jammed themselves into its confines, and over a thousand of them, fascinated by the arguments and warmed by the oratory and enthusiasm of the speakers, remained there for hours, listening to the speeches.

BIG OVERFLOW MEETING.

Thousands, unable to get into Tremont Temple, and unable to get near enough to the speakers in Bosworth place, were turned away from the former, and reluctantly left the latter. Several hundred continued to crowd about the doors of Tremont Temple, hoping that somehow they might get inside, until late in the evening.

Inside the Temple Granville S. MacFarland of the Boston American presided, surrounded by a galaxy of notables of both sexes on the platform. American flags were distributed to the public as they entered, and these were waved as patriotic songs were sung, and at those points in the speeches where the auditors wished to register their unanimous satisfaction with the orators' views.

Mr. MacFarland introduced both the distinguished orators of the evening in well chosen speeches, in the cause of which he pointed out that as Congress was apt to take some sort of decisive action on the treaty next week it was both timely and important that the people of Boston, as well as throughout the United States, should express their disapproval of the un-American League of Nations.

Walsh Demands League Which Means Peace

Senator David I. Walsh, said in part:

"Mr. Chairman, Senator Reed and my Fellow Citizens: (Applause) I ought, first of all, to express to you my personal thanks and, I am sure, your appreciation of the presence in Boston tonight of that great statesman who has devoted so much of his energy and his time to the discussion of the present great public question of the hour.

"There is no man in the United States of America who has labored more incessantly, who has, in and out of the Senate, fought more earnestly against what he believes to be the repudiation of everything that America has stood for for one hundred and forty years, more than our friend and guest tonight, Senator Reed. (Applause)

REVIEWS SCENES OF 1917-18.

"Almost shattered in health, a man who deeply feels that we have come to a point in American life when there is serious danger ahead if we enter into this agreement, a man whose eloquent voice has pleaded for the preservation of American sovereignty during these past months in every corner of the United States of America, a man who has not allowed party affiliations, future political honors, or any other selfish motives, to control his outspoken Americanism. (Applause).

"To face this question in its proper light, we must go back a few years. We must go back and call back to memory the scenes we witnessed in every hamlet, on every street, in every home in America in 1917 and 1918. We must ask ourselves, as we recall these scenes, what it was all for. We must ask ourselves what was the purpose and the motive that actuated these men to respond so cheerfully and so freely to their country's call.

"We must go back to the declarations of our President, and recall the ringing words that he uttered, words that thrilled the whole civilized world, words that plunged hope into the breasts of suppressed people everywhere; more than that, words that stirred to action every human being on the face of God's earth to realize that the Almighty had planted in his breast a love of freedom and of liberty. (Applause.)

"We well know what our purposes were. We well understood that America went into this war for no selfish purposes, for the acquirement of no territory, for the subjugation of no people, but for high ideals, ideals and purposes which no nation before ever proclaimed to the world. (Applause.) The war ended, and there gathered in Paris the representatives of the allied governments to put into action these ideals. To write a contract and an agreement that would be a new Declaration of Independence to the whole world; to set up a new order of things founded upon the principles of justice and liberty.

HOPES RAN HIGH.

"Oh, how high were our hopes; oh, how grateful we were that we had a share and a part in promulgating new world principles for the establishment for the brotherhood of men, for a league of peoples of the world, to promote justice and establish peace and happiness upon earth. (Applause.)

"Finally the conference ended and we looked through the document that was brought back to us and was laid before your Senate for its approval and its ratification. And then, to our astonishment, then to our surprise, we found that every principle we had proclaimed had been stamped under foot and repudiated by the Peace Conference.

"We found that though we had charged our enemy with greed and selfishness, though we knew that whenever the public officials or the rulers of a people seeking to control and extend their power by avarice, were invariably false, we found that the very same greed and selfishness dominated our associates in this war at the peace conference and peace table.

ASKED BUT ONE THING.

"We asked for no territory. We asked for the privilege of dominating and controlling no people. We asked for one thing—We asked for one thing. We asked it in the name of our dead. We asked it in the name of our self sacrificing mothers. We asked it in the name of all our people. We asked for a compact, for an agreement, founded upon justice, that would end forever on the face of God's earth, murder and bloodshed, and wars for all time. (Applause)

"We asked that our boys should come home and point to no annexed territory, to no people to exploit in any parts of the world. We asked them to come back and say, 'We have laid the foundation for permanent, perpetual peace. We have ended war. Never again will an American mother be asked to send her boy into any dreadful world war. (Applause)

"How was it possible to refuse this to America, especially when we appeared to give them a free hand in every single thing they asked, in every single thing they demanded? And yet—and yet they denied a League of Nations to preserve and perpetuate peace and they sent our President, who pleaded for these ideals and these principles home, and back to America with a League of Nations that no living man in America has in this hour claimed to be anywhere near perfect or correct or right or just. (Applause)

TWO KINDS OF LEAGUES.

"He brought back a League of Nations which has been open to denunciation and to serious criticism from the very first day it was exposed to public view to this very hour.

"There are two kinds of leagues; there are two ways to preserve peace in any community in the world. One is by force, one is by the combination of the man power, of the wealth, of the resources, of the great powers of American law, to go into darkest Africa, to go to Japan, China, every spot on the face of the earth where there has been established a boundary line by one of these great powers.

"Oh, but they tell us, 'Accept the the earth, binded together to demand, force by force, everywhere.

"The other is a nation of the world setting up tribunals, proclaiming fundamental principles of international law, hearing complaints and grievances and adjusting them, and when the principles of justice have been applied, then call upon the force, the man power, the wealth and the resources of the world to carry into execution at any cost the just decisions of the international tribunal. (Applause.)

"One league is a status quo; the other is an elastic league which permits readjustment, which permits changes of boundary lines, which grants liberty to oppressed people, and which prevents persecution and oppression.

"Our President pleaded for such a league, and I hold in my hand the Article X, which he presented at the peace conference, which provided for just such a league as I have described, a league that is not a status quo, but a league that left the door open for the settlement of disputes and for the prevention of force.

"He came back with an Article X that conscripts your boy, and every

Women say La-may stays on better than any other face powder.

Up to the present time it has been almost impossible to get a face powder to stay on the face longer than it takes to put it on. You powder your nose nicely, and the first gust of wind or the first puff of your handkerchief and away goes the powder, leaving your nose shiny and conspicuous, probably just at the very moment when you would give anything to appear at your best. A specialist has at last perfected a pure powder that really stays on; that stays on until you wash it off. It does not contain white lead or starchy rice powder to make it stay on. This improved formula contains a medicinal powder doctors prescribe to improve the complexion. In fact, this powder helps to prevent and reduce enlarged pores and irritations. It is also astringent, discouraging flabbiness, crow's feet and wrinkles. This unusual powder is called La-may (French, Poudre L'Ame). Because La-may is pure and because it stays on so well it is already used by over a million American women. All dealers carry the large sixty-cent box, and many dealers also carry the generous thirty-cent size. When you use this harmless powder and see how beautifully it improves your complexion you will understand why La-may so quickly became the most popular beauty powder sold in New York. We will give you five thousand dollars if you can buy a better face powder anywhere at any price. Herbert Roystone, 16 East 18th St., New York.

AMERICA OPPOSED TO LEAGUE SANCTIONING ROBBERY, SAYS WALSH

league!" Our Constitution was imperfect when it was drafted. We had to change it and amend it, but we have, after all, a pretty good Constitution today—and we can do the same thing with the covenant of the League of Nations.

"My friends, don't think for one moment that these wise men of Europe, skilled in the 'nursie-the-tabie' diplomacy, (applause) ever for a moment purposed that that League could be changed from a status quo league to a league founded on the application of principles of justice and fair dealing, for they provided that the covenant could not be amended without the unanimous consent of all the great powers. (Laughter.) The only good that I know might come from such a provision in the Constitution of the United States is that one State would have prevented National prohibition. (Laughter.)

"I have not time to tell you the pitiful story of the representatives of the nations of Europe and of Asia, came there to the founders of this league pleading for justice, pleading for help, pleading for mercy.

"I have not the time to tell you the story of the representatives who came there from India, of the representatives who came there from Ireland (applause) of the representatives who came there from every subject people in the world, all of them, all of them denied by the very men who were to establish a new order, even a hearing before that august tribunal. (Laughter.)

SHAMELESS INJUSTICE.

"But, I think the most outrageous injustice of all is that perpetrated upon China. No man can find words to describe the infamy of the crime of Shantung in that Peace Treaty, stolen from China by Germany, is delivered over to the most mortal enemies that China possessed on the face of God's earth—the Japanese—delivered over because of the secret treaty made by Great Britain and France during the war.

"It is inexplicable, it is unexplainable that any American would agree to any such intentional robbery. I, or one, as a Senator from Massachusetts, so long as I have breath in my body, will never vote to give Shantung to Japan. (Tremendous applause, all rising; three cheers and a tiger.)

"When men go into partnership with other men in the ordinary affairs of life, what do they demand? They demand as fundamental that their business associates shall have the same business ideals of honesty and of decency as themselves.

"Yet America, free and untrammeled, is asked to join partnership with nations who from the first to last have been imperialistic and whose policies are imperialistic; and I, for one, do not propose to let my government enter into partnership with the secret diplomats of the old world, with their imperialistic ambitions and their under-the-table diplomacy, without a protest. (Applause.)

PRAISE FOR WILSON.

"I have refrained from saying one unnecessary or unkind word against our great President. No man ever wrote in human language more lofty or inspiring sentiments than he. No man ever gave to the world a program of righteousness that would ensure permanent peace better than he.

"If I have erred in not following, as I have sought to perform my duty as a Senator of the United States, it is because I believe more in his words and his teachings and his fourteen points than the document which he came back with, written by the diplomats of the old world. Not only because I love my country most I protest and give assertion to my convictions, but, my friends, I do so, too, because I love my political party, the Democratic party.

"The elections during these recent months in Oklahoma, in North Carolina, in Alabama, have indicated what? The whimperings on every street corner, the news in every newspaper and magazine in America are that the Democratic party has a fighting chance in the coming election. This means what? It means that the country, the United States of America is against this treaty and this covenant of the League of Nations. (Applause).

"I do not propose to let my party go on and on and on to sure defeat without raising a protest and without asking the men who believe in and love the Democratic party to go to that convention in San Francisco next Summer and bring the old Democratic party away from its foreign alliances back to true old-fashioned Democratic principles. (Applause).

ASKED TO ACCEPT COVENANT.

"But, my friends, we have been asked, I repeat, to accept this treaty, to accept this covenant. We have been told that it must not be changed, that even the dotting of an I or the crossing of a T is evidence of disloyalty and distrust.

"To say to me—to say to me, 'Accept that document without reading it: accept that document without debating it, accept that document without analyzing it' is for you, Mr. Business Man, when you employ an agent to go and make a contract for you, and he comes back with that contract—I say that agent has as much right to say to you, 'Sign that contract that I have made for you or you will offend me, or you will do me an injury, or you will be unAmerican.'

"I say they the business man has a right and refuse in self-protection say, 'I demand my reserved right to analyze that contract before I put my signature to it, to find out how you will bind me, to find out what my obligation is.' And yet, my friends, we are told by well-meaning but unthinking Senators, 'Don't read that document; sign it; sign it; sign it.'

ADVOCATES OF THREE CLASSES.

"The people in America who are for this covenant without reservations are of three classes: Well meaning, but not well informed, pacifists first. Second, pacifistic and earnest-minded preachers and professors, who are charmed and hypnotized with the word peace. And thirdly, international bankers, who care more about doing business and getting money—blood money—out of Europe than their country. (Applause.)

"If this league covenant is ratified with out strong reservations, it will be due to one of two things, the expediency of a presidential political campaign or a domination of the Senate of the United States by the indirect influence of the international bankers.

"But sign that treaty, sign that treaty, regardless of its imperfections—imperfections which a distinguished advocate of the treaty from the beginning in a nearby city said only a few weeks ago: 'Would that the treaty covenant—if ratified it will lead to mischievous results.' Mischievous results—yes, he said more—would involve the United States in obligations which our country and no other country could or would assume.

"It is appalling that any patriotic, red-blooded American would ask his fellowmen, his servants in his government, to sanction a compact which he knows will lead to mischievous results and obligations that mean war, not peace.

DO NOT SANCTION ROBBERY.

"We want peace. We want a League of Nations. But we do not want a League of Nations that sanctions robbery. We do not want a League of Nations that holds any subjection over oppressed people in the world. We do not want a League of Nations who deny admission to any of the smallest nations on the face of the earth.

"Call us what you will, call us pro-German if you will, call us pro-Irish if you will, call us small Americans if you will, call us narrow visioned men if you will, call us opponents of internationalism, but for God's sake leave to us what you are seeking to abandon, the name of American, whatever adjective you put in front of it. (Applause.)

"But, my friends, I protest against this covenant for another reason. I refuse to permit the world or the nations of the world to make the United States of America a sixth-rate nation. (Applause.) I refuse to permit any other nation in the world to have more votes at any League of Nation's conference than the United States of America. (Applause.)

ATTITUDE INCONCEIVABLE.

"It is inconceivable that any representative of America should knowingly agree to any vote that nation should cast at these conference six votes to our one. It is inconceivable that any representative of America would agree that under certain circumstances or certain interpretations of this covenant, when a dispute should arise between England and the United States of America, we would have to withdraw and England would have to withdraw, but Canada, Australia, South Africa, India and Persia and all the other dominions and controlled governments of Great Britain would sit on the jury and decide who was right. (Applause.)

"We are pleading for the cultivation among our foreign population of the spirit of Americanism. In God's name, how can we teach them Americanism and in the same breath sign an international compact that deprives us of all influence and power in the great League of Nations. And yet there are those who seek to justify that, and who hope in some mysterious way to get unanimous consent to amend that provision and to rectify the injustice and the wrong that is done to America by any such provision.

"From the beginning to the end this treaty and this covenant is filled with all those elements and all those conditions that since the beginning of man has caused wars. There isn't a people in all Europe, except Great Britain, and possibly France, satisfied with this treaty. Bloodshed, murder and wars now prevail in every quarter of Europe, and all that is needed to keep us in perpetual war is to sign this agreement, and to sign Article X, and guarantee to send our boys to do police work in every corner of the world.

NO AMERICAN CAN OPPOSE.

"Who can oppose the reservations that have been proposed to this covenant? Surely no American. There is not one line or one condition that applies to any other government or any other people than Americans. Purposely and intentionally they seek only to protect America's rights and America's possessions. The only people that I know that are now protesting upon this covenant since the letter of the distinguished English statesman of a few days ago are some Americans that are more pro-English than the English in England. (Applause.)

"When our President came back from France, he said, 'We are trusted by all the world.' The proudest boast, the proudest thing he had to report. 'We were trusted by all the world,' and yet, from the beginning of this discussion in the Senate to the end, the one cry we have heard was that some of these people who trusted us would not allow us to insert in this momentous contract a few constitutional provisions that protected our rights. Yet, I say, with all the agitation, with all the discussion, we know one bald spot, that America is loved, that America is trusted, that America is looked up to, and has been for 140 years by all the weak and oppressed of the world. (Applause.)

"We now know that they have considered us the only altruistic nation in all the world. They now know that we were the one nation they could turn to for aid, support and help without exacting money, damages and property in return. And yet, my friends, the pity of it all is that we are now abandoning the love, the affection and the esteem of all the weak peoples of the world, and they are crying out to us from every quarter of the world, 'In God's name; don't abandon us; don't forsake us; don't join the selfish, greedy oppressors of the old world. (Applause.)

MUST FIGHT TO BITTER END.

"To sum it all up there are certain fundamentals that every American must fight for to the bitter end. We must, at any and every cost, preserve our sovereignty; we must protect our self-government; we must cherish our priceless inheritance, and our traditions, and when we apply to this treaty and covenant to see whether it violates fundamental American principles, we must see to it that America refuses to join hands with any government that ask her to abandon the principles and the policies that have made her the great nation that she is. (Applause.)

"My fellow citizens, there is need in America today of the bravery and the courage and the self-sacrificing spirit that our fighting soldiers showed in the late war. There is need in these days of peace for the same spirit to keep democracy secure, not only in the world, but in America. (Applause.) And I plead with you, my fellow citizens, to raise your voices, to speak your sentiments, to give voice and strength to your fellow servants by letting them understand that the people of Boston, that the people of Massachusetts, are Americans first and last, and that they do not propose to sacrifice for an uncertainty the splendid institution, the great government that we love and that is revered throughout the world.

"Awake, men! Let us fight, and fight to the bitter end that we shall not surrender our sovereignty or one iota of our rights by any agreement or any contract made anywhere in the world which threatens to make America's voice and America's influence less among the struggling, the weak, the smaller nations and peoples of the world." (Great applause.)

"If the Assembly did not vote, what would be the situation? You would have a league of thirty-two nations at present. Nine of these would be represented in the Council, twenty-three of them in the Assembly, and the twenty-three in the Assembly would not be permitted to vote. That would be done, I suppose, in the interest of making the world safe for democracy.

"Then out of nine nations there are five that are permanent members, so that in fact you would have an autocracy governing the world, consisting of five nations.

"And whenever five nations undertake to govern this world you will have, first, a world despotism, then a world revolution, then a sea of blood, then the white bones of countless dead on all the plains of the earth.

"But the fact is that the members of the Assembly do vote, and they not only vote but the Assembly is, in the last analysis, the powerful body of the League. The Assembly can admit any nation or reject any nation and by their vote they can fix the condition on which the nations come in and limit their membership.

ASSEMBLY CONTROLS COUNCIL.

What does that mean? Fifty seven million people are outside

Walsh's Attitude on League of Nations

I, for one, as a Senator from Massachusetts, will never vote to give Shantung to Japan.

If this League is ratified without strong reservations it will be due to the expediency of a presidential political campaign or a domination of the Senate by the indirect influence of the international bankers.

We want a League of Nations. But we do not want a League of Nations that sanctions robbery. Call us pro-German, pro-Irish, small Americans if you will, but for God's sake leave to us the name of American, whatever adjective you put in front of it.

I refuse to permit the nations of the world to make the United States of America a sixth rate nation.—From speech of U. S. Senator David I. Walsh.

Dandruff Surely Destroys The Hair

Girls—If you want plenty of thick, beautiful, glossy, silky hair, do by all means get rid of dandruff, for it will starve your hair and ruin it if you don't.

It doesn't do much good to try to brush or wash it out. The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply a little at night when retiring; rub enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop, and your hair will look and feel a hundred times better. You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive and four ounces is all you will need, no matter how much dandruff you have. This simple remedy never fails.—Advertisement.

Reed Says Aliens Would Control U. S. Under Pact

Senator Reed said in part:

"What a spectacle. What a spectacle for the laughter of gods and the tears of men that in the United States Senate a document would be back by the President of the United States shall have been discussed for eight months.

"What a spectacle that in all that discussion every influence of the White House has been against the change of a single proposition in the document; that it has been presented to us as an immaculate conception, to touch so much as the garment of which is sacrilege; that we have been told by the President and told by the Senators—some of them—that we must not change this document; that we must not provide for a vote by the United States equal to the vote of Great Britain.

"What a spectacle, that after eight months' discussion a British statesman certifies to the world that our protest is so just that Great Britain stands ready to admit it. (Applause.)

"Now, sirs, comes Lord Grey, speaking from the throne, head of the world to all the world, and undoubtedly speaking unofficially for the British government, and tells you this: 'The object of Great Britain is to maintain the status of the self-governing dominion, not to secure more British than American votes, and we have no objection in principle to an increase of the American votes.'"

"Let us induce this Englishman to come to this country and let us steer him to the United States Senate. (Laughter and applause.)

"Again, we were told as an excuse for not requiring the same vote as Great Britain that the British colonies only voted in the Assembly, and to quote the President's exact words: 'And the Assembly don't vote.'

"Yet, my friends, the pity of it all is that this covenant is filled with the spirit of greed, of selfishness, of oppression, of intrigue, of the spirit that has been the cause of wars in the past, and yet we are asked to approve it without reservations. Reservations! Why, my friends, the whole civilized world is clamoring for reservations. Belgium, the little nation that gave up her all, her blood, her treasure, her children, her women, her homes, her cities, her towns, her villages, her fields, her farms, her factories, her mines, her railroads, her bridges, her canals, her all, her all, her all, that civilization might live, that democracy might live, that the world might be free, Belgium asks reservations.

"Poland, that has suffered for a hundred years, that has been the battleground of Europe, that has been the cockpit of Europe, that has been the shuttlecock of Europe, Poland asks reservations.

"Armenia, that has been the victim of the Turk, that has been the victim of the Kurd, that has been the victim of the Bolshevik, that has been the victim of the Tartar, that has been the victim of the Mohammedan, that has been the victim of the Christian, that has been the victim of the Jew, that has been the victim of the Gentile, that has been the victim of the Pagan, that has been the victim of the Infidel, that has been the victim of the Atheist, that has been the victim of the Agnostic, that has been the victim of the Protestant, that has been the victim of the Catholic, that has been the victim of the Greek Church, that has been the victim of the Russian Church, that has been the victim of the Mohammedan Church, that has been the victim of the Buddhist Church, that has been the victim of the Shintoist Church, that has been the victim of the Confucian Church, that has been the victim of the Jewish Church, that has been the victim of the Christian Church, that has been the victim of the Pagan Church, that has been the victim of the Infidel Church, that has been the victim of the Atheist Church, that has been the victim of the Agnostic Church, that has been the victim of the Protestant Church, that has been the victim of the Catholic Church that League now than are in, even if we counted ourselves in.

LEAGUE STANDS FOR "WHITE BONES OF COUNTLESS DEAD," SAYS REED

"Second, the Assembly itself elects the members of the council—four of the members. Five are permanent, but four can be taken down at any moment by the Assembly and four more put in their place.

"The Assembly does vote. The Assembly elects the Council, and now here is the misrepresentation that has been made. You have been told that the United States only needs one vote; you have been told that every decision must be unanimous, and that, therefore, the United States with its one vote can always protect itself against an adverse decision, although England casts six votes.

"Whenever the United States has a controversy with another nation, that controversy can be forced into the Council by the other nations by simply demanding a hearing, and then, if the other nation is not satisfied to try it in the Council, it can be removed to the Assembly by simply filing a written request to that effect.

INVOLVES U. S. FOREVER.

"I don't want to say anything harsh, but I want to quote the Scripture—you can always quote the Scripture—'Whosoever sayeth to the contrary is a liar, and the truth is not in him.'

"So that every time that this country has a controversy, no matter if it involves the life of the United States, it can be sent, first, to the Council of Nine, and then to the Assembly of thirty-two. Very well!

"Every question is submissible, but, so there may be no misunderstanding —there might be—I offered an amendment providing that the United States refuse to submit its questions involving its national honor and its vital interests. It was defeated by a majority vote, with the White House influence back of it. So that our national honor and our vital interests must be submitted.

"Now, suppose a question of that kind arises, and we are brought before the Council of the League of Nations for decision. We do not sit; our antagonist does not sit. Then, pray, who does sit? Seven aliens sit!

"Seven aliens, subjects of seven foreign governments, born and reared under seven foreign flags, decide a question involving the life of the United States. I say, a man who will vote for that is not a good American; that is, he is not a good American if he knows what he is doing.

BRITAIN'S FRIENDS DECIDE.

"And who are the seven? Let us assume our controversy is with Great Britain.

"Then France will sit, and can anyone claim France is a free moral agent when her finances are in the control, largely, of Great Britain.

"The neighbor, Belgium. Belgium is a mere pawn of Great Britain. That country was set up largely by the British. It was created as a buffer state to keep the Germans from reaching the Channel. From which point they could embark and swiftly land upon the British shore. That is the truth, that is the truth. (Applause.)

"And Greece. Greece is so much the pawn of Great Britain.

"What other country? Spain. There is not a Spaniard living but hates America, because we reduced Spain to a fifth-rate power.

WOULD PRE-JUDGE U. S.

"Where is our friend? I think I can see him. He is sitting across the table from me. He is looking at me through the narrow slits of a pair of Japanese eyelids.

"Do you not see that in such a tribunal, although I have not mentioned all of them, the United States has no chance? Go to the Assembly, and in the Assembly what do you find?

"You find, as you examine the jury in the box, to try the case of the United States against some other country, that there marches into the box, not Great Britain, for she is our antagonist in this suppositious case I am putting, but, as she takes her seat at the other side of the table from us, her illustrious son, Canada, takes a seat in the box to try the case.

"Australia, New South Africa, and now New Zealand. And I understand now New South Wales has been added, although I am not certain.

"But who is this I see coming in to take her seat? Is it a British colony? No. It is a British slave, India. Eleven hundred white men constitute the over-mastering government of India, and control three hundred million serfs.

SAVAGES AS JURORS.

And then I see coming somebody else. Who is it? The King of the Hedjez. Where is Hedjez. Of course, you know in Boston, but out in Missouri we had to look it up in the books. Three hundred thousand Arabians, about one-third of the population, or one-half of the population of Boston.

"The King of Hedjez is in the pay of Great Britain, and receives $150,000 a year. He is another juryman in this box to try us.

"Here comes Persia. Recently she has had the English gives riveted upon her hands. And she takes her seat.

"Look again. There is Siam coming. Siam, that is as completely a British pawn today as is Egypt.

"So I might go on. At least a dozen votes absolutely British controlled. So that you have got a British League of Nations where you can never get a decision against Great Britain that is effective under the terms of this league. (Applause.)

OUR FRIEND "JAPAN" A JUDGE.

"But, in addition to that, we are now about to decide some great moral question, some question of intellectual advance of progress in the world, and the next juryman I see is the representative of Liberia.

"Then comes Hayti. A people who have retrograded into African barbarism in the interior of their island.

"Then our friend, Japan. I see her coming, and behold in the hand of her representatives bamboo rods wet with the blood drawn from the back of the native Christian women who have been flogged to death because of their religion.

LORD GREY'S ADMISSION.

"Now, Lord Grey said that we are entitled to four to six votes. I am glad that we have got the admission. I shall look with some curiosity at America statesmen who now sit in the United States Senate and vote we shall have a less number of votes than Great Britain says we ought to have. (Laughter.)

"Now, to put the cap sheaf on it, comes Lord Grey, and Lord Grey tells us in good plain English—and I am obliged to him for it—that the self-governing dominions are four members of the league. They will admit, and Great Britain can admit, no qualification whatever of that right.

"So that, as the case stands today, the British demand six votes, offer to give us six votes, and the American Senate and the American President stand out that we shall only have one vote. Aren't you proud of your country? (Laughter.)

"Lord Grey further states that these British colonies are entitled each to a vote, because, he says, they are independent communities and run their own affairs. Are they? Is India an independent community?

ONE VOTE COMMITS U. S.

"We contended that it was possible under this league—and I contend—that you can put all the reservations on it you want to write, and it is still possible for our representative in this league to commit us to world conditions that would involve us in all kinds of trouble, and more, even though the Congress at the time stood in repudiation of it. That was laughed at and sneered at and denounced.

"Now comes Lord Grey and states that it is possible, if the Covenant of the League of Nations stands, for the President, in some future years, to commit the United States, through its American representative of the council of the League of Nations, to a policy which the legislature at that time might disapprove.

"Then we are to be committed by the vote of a single man. Are you willing to put the entire International policy of the United States in the hands of any one man ever born? (Cries of No.)

REPUDIATED BY CROWD.

"If you are not willing to do that, are you willing to put it in the hands of a tribunal in which you will only have one-eighth of one vote? Yet, that is where we are at.

When it is proposed to put that right in a tribunal where we only have one vote in one of the governing bodies out of nine, and in the other one vote out of thirty-two, I protest in the name of all the men who have died for our flag from the fields of the Revolution to the Battle of the Marne. (Applause.)

"The President has said that Article 11 is his favorite article. What is Article 11? Article 11 is a provision under which any nation can be hailed before the League and can be there tried, whether it is a member or not.

"The President says that is his favorite and he explains it in this language: 'Because at present we must attend to other people's business.'

"That is very true, but at the same time we acquire the right to attend to other people's business, they acquire the right to attend to our business. A contract is mutual. It is not unilateral.

"Dropping into the vernacular, this is what it means: When we acquire the right to stick our nose into the business of thirty-two alien States, they acquire the right to stick their thirty-two alien noses into the business of the United States.

FUTURE WARS INEVITABLE.

"My countrymen, they tell you that there is to be no more war. I am about to prove by evidence that will convince any jury you can put in a box—and I will let the fellow on the other side pick it—that they know they are not telling the truth. I am going to produce that evidence.

"First, Lord Cecil has said that the claim that there will be no more war in the world, is an idle dream. A dozen other British statesmen have said the same thing.

"The same powers and forces today are running this league that will run it when we enter, and there are twenty-three wars going on today. They undertook to go into Russia and they found out, to use the expression of one of their officers, that it was like going into a featherbed—the further you got in the less air there was. (Laughter.)

"Today these wars are going on and these wars will go on. I do not mean you cannot do something to mitigate the horrors of war or to lessen their occurrence.

"But is there a man who believes that what Jesus Christ did not accomplish by his sermon on the Mount and by two thousand years of His holy influence, will be brought about at a peace table in fifteen minutes? (Applause.)

"They talk about the self-determination of small nations. This was to be an assembly of brotherly love. It was to be brought together under the canopy of a sky that was already glorious with the light of a new millennium. And every people were to have the right of self-determination.

SELF-DETERMINATION IN ERIN.

"But let us see the spirit of Great Britain. Here comes India, a slave, three hundred million people held in subjection. And yet their alleged representative is given a seat on the League of Nations.

"Over here are the representatives of another race. They are white. They have red blood and blue eyes—most of them. They were civilized five hundred years before Great Britain. They had their colleges (applause)—let me speak, and then you cheer when I get through if you want to.

"They had their colleges of learning while Great Britain walked—Britain walked through the shadows of

Shots at the League From Reed's Speech

"What a spectacle, that after eight months' discussion a British statesman certifies to the world that our protest is so just that Great Britain stands ready to admit it."

"As the case stands today, the British demand six votes, offer to give us six votes, and the American Senate and the American President stand out that we shall have one vote."

"When we acquire the right to stick our nose into the business of thirty-two alien States, they acquire the right to stick their thirty-two alien noses into the business of the United States."

"Is there a man who believes that what Jesus Christ did not accomplish by his Sermon on the Mount and by two thousand years of his holy influence, will be brought about at a peace table in fifteen minutes?"

"You ask me what I would give in place of the League. Let me tell you in a word. I would give you the stalwart Americanism of our fathers."

Mr. David Silverman Tells How Cuticura Healed His Eczema

"I contracted a very severe case of eczema and it was so bad it kept me up nights. It formed into large, red pimples, very irritating and my skin was sore and red. The itching was so disagreeable that I could have torn myself to pieces. Could not do my work. Was disfigured for time being.

"I was treated but got no relief. I was advised to use Cuticura Soap and Ointment. Sent for free sample. The first night I used them was the first night I slept without agony for months so I purchased more, and I used three fifty cent boxes of Ointment with the Soap which healed me." (Signed) David Silverman, Saugatuck, Conn., July 15, 1919.

Use Cuticura for every-day toilet purposes. Bathe with Soap, soothe with Ointment, clean with Talcum.

Health Boards Give Warning of Influenza Danger

Ask People to Be Careful and Take Proper Treatment Promptly. Many Pneumonia Cases Follow Influenza. What to Do.

To be prepared for the serious outbreaks of Influenza and Pneumonia that are now sweeping over the entire country and that have seized on this community Public Health Boards everywhere are issuing cautions and instructions to the public not to neglect treatment at the first symptom of a cold and to cooperate with the board and physicians in stamping out the spread of the disease.

No disease develops so quickly or spreads so rapidly. The first symptom usually is a sharp rise in temperature to 101 or 104 degrees, headache, pain in the back, throat feeling dry or sore. Unless promptly checked by proper treatment, the best plan is to go to bed and stay there for at least a week, keeping warm to avoid pneumonia and let the minor ailment run its course and also prevent the spread of the disease to others.

Most of us in these busy days cannot afford, if it can be avoided, to lose a week or more of work so it is all the more necessary that at the very first sign of grip or influenza a counter-acting treatment should be taken.

Probably no better or more effective treatment could be followed at such a time than to get from the nearest drug store a complete Hyomei outfit, consisting of a bottle of the pure Oil of Hyomei and a little vest-pocket, hard-rubber inhaling device into which a few drops of the oil are poured.

Put the inhaler in your mouth and breathe its air day and night, keeping your nose, throat and lungs clear—particle of air that enters your breathing passages will thus be charged with an antiseptic germ-killing balsam that will destroy the germs that have found lodgment there.

You can't do this too often. The Hyomei Inhaler is small and can be conveniently carried in a handbag or in your vest-pocket. Every half-hour or so throughout the day take it out and draw a few breaths of its pure healing air into your nose and throat. Relief comes almost instantly. Throat conditions become normal, and you soon are feeling fine. The outfit is not at all expensive, for the rubber inhaler will last a lifetime, while the Oil of Hyomei can be obtained at little cost from any reliable druggist. Lots of people already have a Hyomei Inhaler. Take it out, charge it and use it without delay. If you haven't one get it today.

A few cents spent now may easily prevent serious illness and save you many dollars and help stamp out the spread of the disease.

TELL OF BRITISH GRAB

Speakers Reveal How Empire Has Extended Control Over Small Nations

absolute ignorance. They had set up the cross of Christ five hundred years before Britain ceased the worship of Woden and the gods of the north.

"They have stood for seven hundred years and fought for their liberty. They have been starved and driven from their country and their population has been reduced from eight million to four and a half million. They have gone in rags and tatters.

"They have been hunted like wild beasts. Their priests have been driven out of their churches. Their churches have been desecrated. They have been pursued and driven into the swamps and into the out of the way places of the world. And yet through it all this great and glorious race of Irishmen have never given up. (Tremendous applause).

BRITAIN FOSTERS WAR.

"Now, I started a moment ago to say to you a thing that I shall say and then I shall quit. I said—I shall prove they didn't believe themselves they were going to end war, and this is the proof.

"First, Great Britain served notice she would not reduce the British fleet by a single vessel. When she served that notice she ended all chance of international disarmament. Why? Because if Great Britain keeps her fleet other nations must keep their armies.

"When Great Britain said she would keep her fleet she ended the dream of disarmament.

"Second, Great Britain has increased her standing army from three hundred thousand to a million and has established the permanent draft, a thing she did not dare to attempt until the very last days of the war.

"Third, France is increasing her army and her navy.

"Fourth, Japan is increasing her army and is building battle ships as fast as the busy hands and brains of that wonderful but dangerous people can build them.

"Fifth, Italy has taken similar steps.

"Now we come to Uncle Sam. You find the President's representatives demanding that the standing army of the United States, which never exceeded eighty thousand men in a time of real peace, shall be raised permanently to 576,000 men. To do what?

"According to the testimony of the Chief of Staff, that many men are necessary to redeem our obligations under the League of Nations. They demand in addition that we shall have universal military training for every boy when he comes to nineteen years of age.

"And yet they have looked the mothers of this land in the eye and said that their sons will never fight again. Why in God's good name—are they training them to use muskets and bayonets?

"And third, they have brought in a military bill and it is now pending which proposes to fasten on this country the permanent draft as a permanent institution. It proposes that whenever the United States is at war then all the provisions of the old law for the universal draft shall be in effect and that every man between the ages of eighteen and forty-five shall be subject to military duty. Why do they want that if there is to be no war.

"And fourth, Josephus Daniels, the high priest and prophet of the new day comes in demanding $913,000,000 for anything, the largest sum of money ever asked in this world at one time for the building of new ships of war. They are to have six-teen-inch guns, some of them. Of course, those guns are to be loaded with tracts—missionary tracts—to shoot out lessons of love.

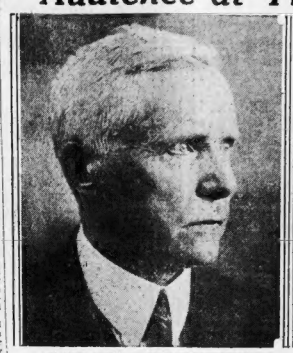
"How far can hypocrisy go, when these things are done under the open eyes of the American people, and they do not arouse themselves. You ask me what I would give you in place of the league. Let me tell you in a word.

"I would give you the stalwart Americanism of our fathers. We will give you the American Constitution untouched. We will give you a flag that dips to no super-sovereignty and that flies over the freest people in the world.

"We will give you the Americanism of Washington, of Lincoln, of Jefferson, of Jackson, and of Roosevelt, without entangling alliances. We will give you that democracy that for a century of time made America a beacon light to all mankind, a democracy of true Americanism.

"We will bring our boys home to their mothers and keep them home. We will build here a temple of liberty so secure that no monarchs nor anarchists of Europe can shake its firm foundations or defile its holy altars."

Senate Leaders Who Stirred Great Audience at Tremont Temple



SENATOR JAMES A. REED OF MISSOURI

SENATOR DAVID I. WALSH OF MASSACHUSETTS

Thousands Unable to Get Into Tremont Temple

Fifteen thousand persons joined in a night. It was the largest gathering ever held at the temple, according to attaches old in the service of the building.

Only 4,000 gained admission to the hall. The others packed Tremont street, from School street to Bosworth place, for an hour before the meeting was scheduled to begin. Later an overflow meeting was held for them in Bosworth place, with addresses by Senator David I. Walsh and others.

CHEER SENATORS LUSTILY.

Not a seat or foot of standing room was unoccupied when United States Senators Walsh and James A. Reed reached the platform a few minutes before 8 p. m. Each person present was supplied with a small American flag. A band and community singing kept them occupied until the speakers arrived.

Both Senators were the recipients of tremendous ovations as they made their entrance to the strains of "Auld Lang Syne," played by the band. The crowd in the auditorium surged to its feet and their flags waved wildly.

"Our noble Senator from Massachusetts" shouted by a man in the balcony was a signal for a new demonstration in honor of Senator Walsh. It was followed immediately by cheers and a tiger for the Missouri Senator, when someone cried, "What's the matter with Reed?"

MR. MacFARLAND PRESIDES.

The audience seemed to take a cue from the opening address of Grenville S. MacFarland, of the Boston American, chairman of the meeting, when he said that the two Senators who had been such staunch opponents of the League of Nations covenant in its original form could not receive too much encouragement. No telling point of either address was permitted to go unapplauded.

As Senator Walsh arose and the first wave of hand clapping had subsided there were shouts of "The people of Massachusetts are with you," and "Hail to the Conquering Hero." As the Senator was expounding on his opposition to the delivery of Shantung to Japan, one enthusiast in the balcony cried: "You're a second Lincoln."

Senator Reed was compelled to wait several minutes for the applause which greeted his speech. As he recounted the nations held under British supervision he was frequently interrupted by demonstrations of displeasure at Britain's course. Mention of Ireland's cause was met with thundering applause. There were cries of derision for the names of British statesmen. Prolonged laughter resulted from Senator Reed's remark: "You remember Taft," in referring to the ex-President's support of the league covenant.

WOMAN SHOUTS AT REED.

During the last few minutes of the meeting in Tremont Temple a woman arose in the first balcony from a point near the stage and shouted: "God bless President Wilson and the League of Nations," and then as an after thought to Senator Reed, who was closing his address, shrieked: "You'll be beaten." No applause greeted the interruption, but hisses and cries of "throw her out" were heard from several parts of the house. Raising his hand for order, Senator Reed rebuked those of the audience who had thus shown their disapproval of the interruption.

"You can't blame the lady for having these nations when they have been taught so long by our President and United States Senators," he said. Senator Reed was unable to address the overflow meeting owing to the lateness of the hour at which his address in the Temple ended. He left immediately for New York en route to Washington.

Before the beginning of the speaking patriotic songs were sung by the audience under the direction of George S. Dane, director of the community singing department of the Boston Community Service.

RECEPTION COMMITTEE.

Among those on the reception committee and who sat on the speakers' platform were: Judges Keating, Quinn and Michael Murray, Attorney William Coolidge, Sr.; Representative William H. McDonnell, Louis A. Frothingham, John H. McNamee, president of the Prudential Trust Company; Mayor Peter F. Sullivan of Worcester, Mayor Melvin O. Breach of Chelsea, Mayor Edward Quinn of Cambridge, former Mayor James M. Curley of Boston, James T. Barrett, president of the Cambridge City Council; City Councilors Francis J. W. Ford, David Brickley, Daniel W. Lane, Henry Hagan and John Donoghue; Attorneys Henry P. Hurlburt, Henry N. Sweet, Sheldon E. Wardell, Thomas H. Mahony, Joseph P. Walsh, Michael L. Fahey, E. A. Bayley, Paul F. Spain, Albert E. Kelcher and Arthur Lord of Plymouth.

Also Louis A. Coolidge, treasurer of the United Shoe Machinery Company; George W. Hyde, vice-president of the First National Bank of Boston; George Bramwell Baker, senior member of the banking firm of Baker, Lyling & Co.; Junius Beebe, president of the Ayer Tanning Company and Wakefield National Bank; J. Mitchell Galvin, Samuel B. Dale, editor of Textiles, Edward F. McSweeney, General E. Leroy Sweetser, head of the State Board of Labor and Industries; Major Carrol J. Swann, Fred C. Spaulding, John Morton, William Hennessy, William C. S. Healey, George Canty, Benjamin A. Dargo.

CIVIC LEADERS PRESENT.

And also these well know civic and business leaders: Major George von L. Meyer, vice-president of the Massachusetts Branch of the League for the Preservation of American Independence and president of the Young Republican Club of Massachusetts; Attorney D. Chauncey Brewer, president of North American Civic League for Immigrants; Henry L. Kincaide of Quincy, Dr. F. P. McCarthy, Howard Cooney, Attorney Wilmot R. Evans, Jr., former State Senator and director of several banking institutions; A. C. Ratshesky, president of the United Trust Co.; Dr. Anna O'Sullivan, Mrs. Thomas J. Broderick, Mrs. John A. Rooney, Misses Monica Foley, Veronica Lynch, Margaret Rooney, Margaret Foley, Lena Mahoney, Elizabeth Hurley, Alice M. McCarthy and Mary Culhane.

Hard Cider Making Is Doomed by U. S.

Washington, Feb. 5.—"Hard cider" is doomed by the regulations issued by the Internal Revenue Bureau to govern the sale and manufacture of apple juice containing more than one-half of one per cent. of alcohol.

Sweet cider may be made and sold without a special permit, but it must be put up in sterile containers, or treated with benzoate of soda or other substance to prevent fermentation. Responsibility for keeping the alcoholic content below one-half of one per cent. rests upon the manufacturer.

THIEF GETS $200 AND WOMAN'S HANDBAG

While entering the Scollay square station of the East Boston Tunnel, Mrs. Joseph Fameiori of No. 9 Whitby street, East Boston, had a handbag which contained $200 snatched from her hand.

CATARRHAL DEAFNESS MAY BE OVERCOME

If you have Catarrhal Deafness or head and ear noises or are growing hard of hearing go to your druggist and get 1 ounce of Parmint (double strength), and add to it ½ pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar. Take 1 tablespoonful four times a day.

This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy and the mucus stop dropping into the throat. It is easy to prepare, costs little and is pleasant to take. Anyone who has Catarrhal Deafness or head noises should give this prescription a trial.—Advertisement.

We'll Meet You At the Station

WE want to make it just as easy as we can for you to visit our store and acquaint yourself with our furniture and the unusually low prices.

For that reason our automobile will meet all our out-of-town customers at either North or South Stations. All you have to do is write us in advance, telling us the time your train will arrive.

The Moller automobile will have a simple little sign on the wind-shield so that you can identify it without trouble. No other advertising will appear anywhere on the car.

Those who prefer to come by subway from North Station should take any subway car to Park Street, change there to the Cambridge subway, and get off at Central Square.

South Station arrivals take Cambridge subway trains at South Station and come straight through without change.

Our store is in plain sight of the Central Square station—at the corner of Massachusetts Avenue and Main Street. It is easy to reach.

Even if it were hard to reach, instead of so easy, it would pay you to make the extra effort. The low prices are lower, perhaps, than you realize.

To those of you who live at a distance: When you plan your next trip to Boston, please write us, and let our car meet you at the station.

OUR BIG FEBRUARY FURNITURE SALE

Make February the getting-acquainted month. You can save from 10% to 25% by buying during this month. Both the old and the sale prices will be marked in plain figures. Visit our store this week, buy what you want and pay as you go.

Curling Iron Kills Hair; New Method Improves It

Many a woman loses the silky, fluffy and brilliant appearance of her hair through habitual use of the hot curling iron. Certainly it can do the hair no good to dry up its natural oil, since the life oil of it, making it harsh, brittle and dull. And there's no excuse for continuing the use of that destructive instrument, now that we know what can be accomplished by applying plain liquid silmerine.

The use of this harmless product really preserves the life, lustre and beauty of the hair, and the curly and wavy effects so perfectly natural looking and most captivating. If it's never tried it, by all means procure a few ounces from your druggist, and use enough to moisten your hair from root to tip, rubbing it on with a clean tooth brush. The liquid silmerine is neither gummy nor greasy, but quite pleasant to use.—Advertisement.

Quick, Safe Way to Remove Hairs

(Toilet Talks)

Keep a little delatone powder on your dressing table and when ugly hairy growths appear, make a paste with a little of the powder and some water, apply and let remain on the hairy surface for 2 or 3 minutes, then rub off, wash the skin and the hairs have vanished. This treatment is quite harmless and rarely more than one application is required to avoid disappointment care should be used to buy the real delatone.—Advertisement.

Of Course I'll Take Celery King

The king of tonic laxatives.

I take it every season and so do mother and the children.

It purifies the blood, clears the skin and chases away that wornout feeling. Brew a cup tonight just like you make tea. You'll like it.

MURCHIE SEEMS SURE TO WIN PLACE ON ALL-BOSTON HOCKEY TEAM

DEFENSIVE WORK IS STRONG

Team A Scores 4 to 3 Victory Over Team B in "Sudden Death" Period

Harry Murchie, Dartmouth Club point, and captain of Team B of the Boston All-Star squad, landed with both feet in the front rank of the outer defence candidates for the All-Boston team, when Team A, by the doubtful virtue of an offside goal scored in a "sudden death" period, defeated Team B, 4 to 3.

Murchie played by far the best outer defensive game of the six candidates for the position. Leon Tuck of Team A was his closest rival. The forward play of George Percy and Frankie Downing of Team A, and Johnnie Murphy and Jerry Geran of Team B excelled that of the remaining candidates for the wing and centre positions, while the goal guarding of Art Donahue of Team A and Jack Wylde of Team B was of such high class order that it seemed little to choose between these two leading candidates.

Irving Small and Red Synnott, the former Arena Hockey Club stars, showed flashes of their old-time form, but appeared decidedly off their skating condition. Rannie Skilton, owing to an attack of laryngitis, was unable to play in the initial contest of the All-Star teams, and probably will not be in condition to play tomorrow night.

Team B went into the lead in the first period when Murphy discarded a rebound of his own shot. Early in the second period George Percy scored for Team A on a pass from Hutchinson, and a short time later, Percy put Team A in the lead by a pretty dribble and well-executed drive from the side. Geran on a follow up of a drive by Murphy again tied the score early in the third period. Percy, however, put Team A again in the lead by scoring on a pass from Tuck. But Murphy of Team B again made the count even by caging a goal from scrimmage. The regularly scheduled periods ended with the score 3 to 3, and after four minutes of the "sudden death" period was followed, Percy took an offside pass and scored from the side.

HARVARD SCORES 8 TO 0 VICTORY OVER TECH

Harvard's varsity hockey sextet scored a runaway victory over a Tech team which had been considerably weakened through the illness of three of its regular players. The score was 8 to 0, and of the points Ned Bigelow, Harvard's hockey actalliied five and Bob Emmons, two. The remaining point came from the stick of Joe Stubbs.

R. NORRIS WILLIAMS, 2D, NOT TO GO TO NEW YORK

R. Norris Williams, 2d, will be unable to attend the annual meeting of the United States National Lawn Tennis Association tomorrow at the Waldorf-Astoria, New York city, and will not play with the Boston team in the inter-city match against New York at the Heights Casino courts in Brookline, Saturday, because of a severe cold of some days' standing.

HARVARD SPORT LOSS $30,000

Lack of Varsity Football in 1918 Assigned as Chief Cause of Deficit

Harvard has a deficit of more than $30,000 to show for its first year in athletics since the war ended. The financial report prepared by F. W. Moore, graduate treasurer, shows that the receipts for the academic year 1919-1920 ending June last were just about half as much as the expenses. There was $32,211.78 taken in during the year with $62,419 95 going out, a deficit of $30,208.19 occurring.

Varsity football, the big bread winner in former years, showed how it was one of the athletic activities which was not officially recognized at Cambridge in the fall of 1918. There was a service team which played to a $4,171.66 gate, and which cost the H. A. A about $400 more to run.

The crew was given $13,037.52, and here a deficit of $7,000 was shown. Hockey and track both needed helping hands. The loss in the five major sports totaled $7,531.60.

PICK YALE TO BEAT HARVARD IN RELAY

Yale had been made a slight favorite to beat Harvard in the 780-yard relay race, the final event in the big B. A. A games, Saturday night. Reports from Cambridge that Dennis O'Connell is not absolutely right on account of a slight attack of the flu has caused many of the athletic followers to switch around to the Blue to win the big race.

WEST END LEGION POST GETS BUSY ON SPORTS

James E. Welch Post, American Legion, of the West End, is to put a basketball team and a track team in the field. William F. Brophy will be athletic director. The first game for the basketballers will be tonight at Stoughton. The track team will prepare to do big things at the legion games at the East Armory, February 23.

WOODBURY'S BETTY IS WINNER AT LYNN

Woodbury's Betty, a bulldog owned and exhibited by Mrs. Jessie Woodbury of Lynn, was judged the best dog at the annual show the Lynn Kennel Club at which more than 200 dogs were benched. Joy Girl, 2nd, a Boston terrier owned by Mrs. Henry Daniels of Mattapan, was chosen reserve dog.

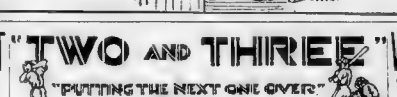
Tri-School Track Meet

Medford, Commerce and Marblehead High School field teams meet in a triangular tourney at the East Armory today. The track events will be run off tomorrow.

"TWO AND THREE" WEST END CLUB TO BOOM SPORT



The Noodle

WHEN Greek meets Greek Jack Curley grabs the promoter's end. Jack lets the lads, who Lord Byron sung about, wrassle 'emselves bowlegged and then hooks the scientific end of the purse for himself. He parks the brains that steers the tournament. The wrasslers are merely the muscles

WHICH cranks up the old argument about the ratio of brains to sport. How much brains are there in athletics, if any? Are they required, and if not, why so? Do you need a noodle to play with loaded checkers? Stack two guys in the ring of equal weight, physique, slapping power and guts. One has a double A noodle, which is the narrowest size in shoes or hats. The other bird packs an average skull with the ability to think out the aid of a Weejee board, which is some accomplishment these days. They flatten each other three times.

The guy with the noodle stays down until the cuckoo chirps nine, while the other guy pops up after each tumble without giving the fog a chance to lift. He is ironed out the fourth time and stays there because he didn't take his nine seconds' nourishment the first three times. The wise guy mightn't always bring home the bacon. Sometimes he eats it on the way home.

ALLOWING that a dumb turtle with a reinforced shell is better off that a smart porcupine with rubber quills, still, the old noodle is the stuff that keeps the adding machine adding up instead of subtracting. Tommy Ryan and Kid McCoy used to think many a guy out of a bout. Remember when the Kid buzzed Gus Ptacake that a dizzy blonde wanted him to look around? Gus doesn't.

IT'S a question just how many brains you can use without over-stepping the deadline. But it's generally conceded that you must protect yourself at all times in any branch of sport, athletics or gambling. Grabbing a sleeper is one of the little niceties of that thimble game of dotted eyes that has both supporters and antogonists. Still, a sleeper is a sleeper, and if a guy doesn't know he has won, why ring four fire alarms? Gambling should be accomplished without having to set the Big Ben for eight o'clock in the morning.

IS a Yank skipper cheating when he blankets the Shamrock Fourth, Eighth or Fifteenth and cuts off his wind? Tommy Lipton has piped his boats being surrounded plenty, but he never squawked. Part of the game.

WHEN a three-cushion billiard shark shoots George Moore he always angles to leave George's cue ball in the middle of the table. George is short and plump. Any time his pile is in the centre of the table he has to shoot with a bridge. His game shrinks up 20 per cent. Is the other guy outguessing him, or is it the old problem of science over brute strength?

THE sprinters burn 'emselves up at the barrier, while the wise cuckoo don't oil up the hinges until the homestretch. It's the old noodlepiece that kept the oldtimers like Wagner and Lajoie in the game. After Cy Young's arm had folded up he used to think the ball over the plate.

JUDGE a pump by the water, not by the color it's painted. Don't always look for the wise crackers in the big works. Most of 'em come up from the sticks. This great and glorious one-time oasis has nearly thirty patent medicines. Maybe many of 'em don't need Hughes. And not one of 'em was born in a big city. All popped out of the alfalfa.

THE nearest guy who came to being born in a large town was Bill Taft. And he came from Cincinnati.

Carpentier to Wed; Honeymoon Here

Paris, Feb. 5.—Georges Carpentier, heavyweight champion of Europe, is to be married during the first week of March, and will sail for the United States on March 10 under contract to a moving picture company, according to a story published in the press here today.

The bride-to-be was described as "a young girl," but otherwise her identity was not revealed.

NATE SIEGAL TO GO AFTER SHAVER O'BRIEN

Nate Siegal, Revere welterweight, will try to continue his victorious surge when he clashes with Shaver O'Brien of South Boston in a twelve-round bout at the Commercial A. C. tomorrow night. There is keen rivalry between this pair and a torrid tussle is expected. Billy Fitzsimmons of Yonkers and Tommy Regan of East Boston will meet in another ten-round event, while Teddy Murphy of the West End and Freddy Madden of East Boston will go over the jumps in another ten-round affair.

FIVE CORNERED SCHOOL MEET

Dorchester, Newton, Brookline, English and Latin Athletes Clash in Armory

The field events of the five-cornered meet between Dorchester, Newton, Brookline, English and Latin Schools which will be staged Friday at the East Armory, takes place today at the English High School gymnasium.

Coming as it does before the B. A. A games it will keep the boys on edge and have them in great shape for the big meet.

The high and broad jump and the shotput will be the events staged tomorrow. Owing to the lack of proper equipment at the East Armory, it has been necessary to hold the field events the day before the scheduled meet

There would be plenty of time to run the whole meet off in one day and save time if the conditions at the armory were right and it would be a good move to prepare the armory so that the field events could be held there

WORK CUT OUT FOR JOIE RAY

Cutbill of B. A. A. Showing Great Speed in Trials; Likewise Connolly of Georgetown

Shrewd judges of speed and endurance are predicting that Joie Ray, the great Chicago middle-distance runner, will have the toughest race of his career in the Hunter Mile at the B. A. A. games Saturday evening Joie won the event rather easily a year ago, and until recently looked like an odds favorite to repeat this time.

But the stunts that Jimmy Connolly of Georgetown and Harold Cutbill of the B. A. A have been showing in practice have inclined the interested to agree that the race will be a battle all the way. Connolly in Washington recently waltzed off a mile in 4:29, which is remarkable time for anybody

Cutbill, New England intercollegiate sensation last Spring, has been working out with the Unicorn quarter-milers at the Harvard track, and in a tryout got off a quarter which equalled the best furlong performance of the relay stars

According to Captain Tom Halpin, Cutbill is the best miler that ever represented the Back Bay club, and will give the little Chicago flier the surprise of a lifetime

JOHN LESTER JOHNSON HURT HAND AND SHOULDER

John Lester Johnson, who was stopped in eight rounds by Fred Fulton, had an X-ray photograph taken of his right hand at the City Hospital, Johnson injured this hand as well as his right shoulder in the second session of his tussle with the Minneapolis heavyweight. Jim Mc-Donald, Johnson's manager, declared today that if his protege had not met with this injury he would have given Fulton a much better battle than he did. Johnson now wants a match with Larry Williams or Clay Turner. He then plans to go after Fulton again

BOXING BOUTS FOR MORSE EMPLOYES

The male employes of the Leopold Morse Company are to be treated to a boxing and wrestling and weighing match to be held on the premises tonight, under the auspices of the Winthrop Square Athletic Club. Tom Brady, the official judge of the N. E. A. A. A. A., is the first time that an affair of this sort has been held by any retail store in New England and is being done in the interest of the concern to a closer relationship with the employes.

ROY MOORE MEETS TERRY MARTIN AT MANCHESTER

Roy Moore, St Paul bantamweight, will have Terry Martin of Providence as an opponent in a twelve-round bout at the Coliseum, Lowell tonight. Moore has displayed plenty of class in former appearance in Lowell and while Martin is rated as one of the best bantamweights in New England, he will have his hands full from Abe Friedman at Providence. He also has a decision to his credit over Young Fox, British featherweight champion

HARVARD BASEBALL PLAYERS TO MEET

A mass meeting of Harvard varsity and freshman baseball players has been arranged for a week from Monday night in the trophy room of the Harvard Union. Plans for the Spring will be outlined by Coach Jack Slattery. Dr. Nichols, the class physician, Captain Bobby Emmons and Manager Alexander Kirk. The following day batting practice will begin by Slattery in the cage. The remainder of the squad will be ordered out about March 1

Substitutes for Tea

THERE are over thirty plants used as substitutes for tea. One, in Mauritius, comes from the dried leaves of a fragrant orchid. It grows on trees in the Isle of Bourbon, and the Africans have long employed its leaves as medicine, and the infusion of them as a drink.

April Folly

By Cynthia Stockley

A Brilliant New Film Romance With Marion Davies

Watch for This Story in Motion Pictures

"April Folly," soon to be seen in leading motion picture theatres, is a Cosmopolitan production, released through Famous Players-Lasky Corporation as a Paramount-Artcraft picture, direction of Robert Z. Leonard.

The Story to Date

Lady Diana Sandilands, on her way to Liverpool for Africa, eludes her chaperone and meeting on the train a young and pretty governess, April Poole, also going to Cape Town persuades her to exchange identities. April appears on the liner as Lady Diana, and the latter in her whims and flirting earns the title of "April Fool." April meets a man named Sarle who interests her, but she expostulates with Diana for making her name (April Poole) a thing to be sneered at. Diana promises to do better, but the reputation she has made sticks to her, and the women passengers snub her.

HE spoke of Africa as a man might speak of some worthless woman whom he had loved above all peerless women, of the lure and bane of her, how she was the home of lies and life, the grave of reputation, the refuge of the re-sistance-man and the bad egg, the land of the unexpected best, but never the usual. Likewise, of sunstroke and fever, scabies and broken carriers, cattle, robbery and highway robbers.

How yet who once had been away from her for a little while, sometimes for a few months only, one forgot all these things and remembered only with hunger and aching the pine, the good bite of her, the crystal air, royal sunsets and tender dawns, the unforgettable friends she had won, the exquisite reveries her wild stories had inspired, the valiant men who lie buried in her breast, the sweeping rivers and leagues and leagues of whispering grasses.

How, suddenly, the nostalgia for the burn and the bite of her bitter lips seizes upon the men who have known her too long and too well, dragging them from ease and comfort and the soft cushions of life back across the seas to her gaunt, arid breast.

She Trembles

"And there seems to be some kind of blessing in that old cross held over us as we come trailing back!"

His smile was scoffing and a little weary, but behind it April heard longing in his voice and saw the searching of his eyes toward where land would soon appear. And at that he was filling strangely communicated itself to her. The subtle hand of Africa was laid upon her heart and she trembled.

In that moment she reckoned suddenly of her false position. Why was she not coming to this witch-land frankly and with clean hands, instead of in the coils of a foolish pretense? She looked at the fine stern face of the man at her side and was ashamed.

An impulse seized her to tell him the truth—but the words died as she drew her up sharply. Had she the right to disclose the secret before first consulting the other girl or, at least, telling her what she meant to do? There had of late been something about Diana that called for this consideration. She had grown so quiet of late. Her gay laughter was seldom heard and, though she still sat about with Sarle in great deal, no one ever heard them talking much. They seemed to revel in silence. It was not difficult to divine what April was upon them, and April was more glad than she could tell.

For if it came to pass that Diana should get something out of this masquerade, something beyond mere frivolous enjoyment, then the means would have justified the end, and neither would have cause for reproach. How fitting too, for Diana and Berkeley both, if, after some world and social position, to find each other in such a disinterested way! Really it looked as if everything were for the best in the best of all possible worlds.

It was only when Sarle's clear gaze was upon her that April's soul stirred with a sense of guilt and a longing to discontinue the deceit.

AND I sat in the darkness thinking of many things; Mrs. Stoughton and the look of cold hatred Valerie Cosby had turned on Evvy. For she and the fruit lemonade she couldn't drink because she had a ways taken that with Neal. Neal, and the way he had buried his head in the cover when I told him that Peggie still cared.

When I turned my thoughts back to the present and the paused suitcase. Was Neal going away to Europe? Was Evvy going to marry him? Was Merton Ware over if Neal meant [illegible] Evvy? I felt a [illegible] in my young [illegible]. He must take care of [illegible]. While Jim was dancing with Valerie Cosby.

"[illegible] are you there?"

I crept over to the door.

"Who's there?" I [illegible].

[illegible] came into the room [illegible] air changed to a [illegible]. She pulled the [illegible] and leaned toward me, [illegible]:

"[illegible] for you everywhere [illegible] your brother's room [illegible] I want you to [illegible] she [illegible] laughed in a [illegible] and never before [illegible] married you. 'Your [illegible] Mabel is by [illegible] names are [illegible] That sounds [illegible]

"[illegible] want [illegible] to see your brother? [illegible] to follow [illegible] and Val shrugged [illegible] going-by [illegible] room.

"What do you mean" I called [illegible]

"Come and see," she laughed.

Then, almost as if it were a bad dream, I rose and followed her.

Valerie Cosby glided noiselessly down the corridor and stopped at least at a door which she opened silently. Then she turned with her finger on her lips.

"This is my room," she whispered. "I came up to rest—I was feeling—a little done up. I thought I'd get a breath of air, so I stepped out on this balcony. Come with me," and seizing my arm, she drew me out after her. And I fancied that it wasn't a mere balcony from my window, but a long gallery that runs around the house.

"Hush!" whispered Val. "I brought you here to see the tricks that little Mason cat is playing with your young brother. I thought you ought to know," she added, virtuously, but in the moonlight I could see her eyes flash as they had when she turned from Mrs. Stoughton to Evvy an hour before.

"My brother?" I repeated vaguely. "Why, I thought he'd gone."

At that I started toward the ladder-like stairway, leading from one floor of the summer house to the other. What I intended to do if I found Evvy and Neal together I didn't know. Nor was there any reason why they shouldn't be together. But the fact that Neal needed me—and I knew that Phoebe had never needed me more. I was going to fight for her happiness.

"Hush! They'll hear you," she warned spitefully.

Famous Old Recipe for Cough Syrup

Easily and cheaply made at home, but is been all for quick results.

Thousands of housewives have found that they can save two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough preparations by using this well-known old recipe for making cough syrup at home. It is simple and easy, but it really has no equal for prompt results. It takes right hold of a cough and gives immediate relief, usually stopping an ordinary cough in 24 hours or less.

Get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist, pour it into a pint bottle and add plain granulated sugar syrup to make a full pint. If you prefer, use clarified molasses, honey or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way it tastes good, and perfectly and lasts a family a long time.

It's truly astonishing how quickly it acts, penetrating through every air passage of the throat and lungs, loosens and raises the phlegm, soothes and heals the membranes, and gradually but surely the annoying throat tickle and dreadful cough disappear entirely. Nothing better for bronchitis, spasmodic croup, hoarseness or bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, known the world over for its healing effect on the membranes.

Avoid disappointment by asking your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with full directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.—Advertisement.

BEAUTY SPECIALIST TELLS SECRET

A Beauty Specialist Gives Home-Made Recipe to Darken Grey Hair

Mrs. M. D. Gillette, a well-known beauty specialist of Kenosha, Wis., recently said in the following statement regarding grey hair:

"Anyone can prepare a simple mixture at home that will darken grey hair and make it soft and glossy. To a half-pint of water add 1 ounce of bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound and ¼ ounce of glycerine.

These ingredients can be purchased at any drug store at very little cost. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. This will make a gray-haired person look twenty years younger. It does not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy and does not rub off."

The Cinema Murder

By E. Phillips Oppenheim

A Mystery Film Serial of Love and Intrigue in England and New York

CHAPTER IX.

THE slow fever of inaction, fretting in Phillip's veins, culminated soon after Martha's departure in a passionate desire for a movement of some sort. The very silence of the room maddened him, the unresponsive-looking telephone, the fire which had burned itself out, the drumming even of the wind, which at intervals during the evening had flung a rainstorm against the window-pane. At midnight he could bear it no longer and sallied out into the streets.

Again that curious desire for companionship was upon him, a strange heritage for one who throughout the earlier stages of his life had been content with and had even sought a grim and unending solitude. He boarded a surface car for the sake of sitting wedged in amongst a little crowd of people, and he entered his club, noting the number of hats and coats in the cloakroom with a queer sense of satisfaction.

He so sooner made his appearance in the main room than he was greeted vociferously from half a dozen quarters. He accepted every hospitality that was offered him, drinking cheerfully with new as well as old acquaintances. Presently Noel Bridges came up and gripped his shoulder.

"Come and have a grill with us," he begged. "There's Seymour and Richmond here, from the Savage Club, and a whole crowd of us. Hullo, Freddy!" he went on, greeting the man with whom Phillip had been talking, "why don't you come and join us, too? We'll have a rubber of bridge afterwards."

"That's great," the other declared. "Come on, Ware. We'll rar old Honeybrook into telling us some of his stories."

The little party gathered together at the end of the common table. Phillip had already drunk much more than he was accustomed to, but the only result appeared to be some slight slackening of the tension in which he had been living. His eyes flashed, and his tongue became more nimble. He insisted upon ordering wine. He had had no opportunity yet of repaying many courtesies.

They drank his health, forced him into the place of honor by the side of Honeybrook, veteran of the club, and ate their meal to the accompaniment of senseless bursts of laughter, the popping of corks, mock speeches, badinage of every sort. Phillip felt, somehow, that his brain had never been clearer.

He not only held his own, but he earned a reputation for a sense of humor previously denied to him.

And in the midst of all the door opened and closed, and a huge man, dressed in plain dinner clothes, still wearing his heavy coat, with a coat upon his arm and a stick in his hand passed through the room and stood for a moment gazing around.

Looking Grim

"Say, that's Sylvanus Power!" one of the young men at the table exclaimed. "Looks a trifle grim, doesn't he?"

"It's the old man, right enough," Noel Bridges murmured. "Wonder what he wants down here? It isn't in his beat."

Honeybrook, the great New York raconteur of the club, touched Phillip upon the shoulder. "Hey, presto!" he whispered. "We who think so much of ourselves have become pigmies upon the face of the earth. There towers the representative of modern omnipotence. Those are the hands—grim, strong-looking hands, aren't they?—that grip the levers of modern American life. Rodin ought to do a statue of him as he stands there at; and letters are growing smaller as he grows larger. We exist for him. He builds theatres for our plays, museums for our pictures, libraries for our books."

"Seems to me he is looking for one of us," Noel Bridges remarked.

"Some poser, isn't it?" a younger member of the party exclaimed reverently, as he lifted his tankard.

All these things were a matter of seconds, during which Sylvanus Power did indeed stand without moving, looking closely about the room. Then his eyes at last lit upon the end of the table where Phillip and his friends were seated. He approached them without a word. Noel Bridges ventured upon a greeting.

"Coming to join us, Mr. Power?" he asked.

Sylvanus, if he heard the question, ignored it. His eyes had rested upon Phillip. He stood over the latter now, looming before them, massive, in his way awe-inspiring.

"Ware," he said, "I've been looking for you."

Instinctively Phillip rose to his feet. Tall though he was, he had to look up at the other man, and his slender body seemed in comparison like a willow wand. Nevertheless, the light in his eyes was illuminative. There was no shrinking away. He stood there with an air of one prepared to welcome, to incite and provoke storm whatever might be brewing.

"I have been to your rooms," Sylvanus Power went on. "They knew nothing about you there."

"They wouldn't." Phillip replied. "I go where I choose and when I choose. What do you want with me?"

Conversation Suspended

Conversation in the room was almost suspended. Those in the immediate locality, well acquainted with the gossip of the city, held they key to the situation. Every one for a moment, however, was spellbound. They felt the coming storm, but they were powerless.

"I sought you out, Ware," Sylvanus Power continued, his stern voice ringing through the room, "to tell you what probably every other person here knows except you. If you know it you're a fool, and I'm here to tell you so."

"Have you been drinking?" Phillip asked calmly.

"Maybe I have," Sylvanus Power answered, "but what's my can't cloud my brain or stop my tongue. You're looking at my little toy here," he went on, twirling in his right hand a heavy malacca cane with a leaden top. "I killed a man with that once."

"The weapon seems sufficient for the purpose," Phillip answered indifferently.

"Any other man would have sat in the criminal dock. Not I! I don't know as much of me as you need to, Merton Ware. I'm no whippersnapper of a pen-slinger, earning a few paltry dollars by writing doggerel for women and mountebanks to act. I've been my way with my fists and my brain, from the streets to the palace. They say that money talks. By God! it does I ought to shout.

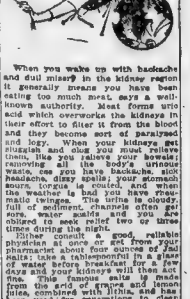
IF KIDNEYS ACT BAD, TAKE SALTS

Says Backache is a sign you have been eating too much meat.



When you wake up with backache and dull misery in the kidney region it generally means you have been eating too much meat, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which overworks the kidneys in their effort to filter it from the blood and they become sort of paralyzed and lazy. When your kidneys get sluggish and clog you must relieve them. Else you'll have constant backache, sick headache, dizzy spells, your stomach sours, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment, channels often get sore, water scalds and you are obliged to get up nights two or three times during the night.

Either consult a good, reliable physician at once or get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clear and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is a life saver for regular meat eaters as it is inexpensive, cannot injure and makes a delightful, effervescent, lithia-water drink.—Advertisement.

PICKARD GIVEN DEAN CLEWS

Jaffrey Selectmen Vouched for Important Facts in Murder Without Success

East Jaffrey, N. H., Feb. 5.—Further light on what went on behind the scenes in connection with the investigation of the murder of Dr. William Kendrick Dean is shed by correspondence which passed between the selectmen of this town and County Solicitor Roy M. Pickard of Keene.

On January 26, 1919, Mr. Pickard sent the following letter to the selectmen:

"Gentlemen: The Boston Post of yesterday has an article purporting to be an interview with William DeKerlor, whom we know as Kent. In that article DeKerlor claims to know the name of the man who committed the murder. He claims to have in his possession further, very soon after the murder, the instrument with which it was committed.

CLAIMED TO KNOW SLAYER.

"He claims to have also further at about the same time and place a bundle of blood-stained clothing. Will you gentlemen please verify, if you can, these reports? Mr. Kent has been acting as your agent. If these things have been found and have not been reported to the proper authorities, I should like very much to know the reason why.

"Mr. Kent further in this article claims to have the photographs or pictures of the three men and the woman in this case. He claims, as I have said above, to be able to give the name of the man who did the crime. Either he has this name or he has it not.

"If he has it, I demand that he, as your agent, give me this name. If he has not then I think that the Selectmen ought to do whatever is necessary to check any false impression that may arise from this article. I am sending a copy of this letter to the Attorney-General.

"Very truly yours,

(Signed) "ROY M. PICKARD."

On the following day, January 27, the Selectmen sent this letter to County Solicitor Pickard:

"Dear Sir: Yours of Jan. 26 at hand and the selectmen of Jaffrey are pleased to acknowledge receipt of the first uncolicited communication from you since the murder of Dr. Dean.

"When at your office Saturday, we understood that you would not receive any evidence through Mr. Kent, without verification. The selectmen disclaim any knowledge of the article in the Sunday Post of Jan. 18. However, we can vouch for every thing as stated, excepting the name of the man who killed Dr. Dean.

REFUSED TO PROSECUTE.

"The blood-stained clothing was delivered to whom we thought were the proper authorities, the Federal officials. The instrument found, as we told you Saturday, was delivered to Dr. Magrath for examination. The name you will have to get from Kent as we do not know anything about it.

"You refused to prosecute a woman whom you have declared guilty; would you prosecute anyone else on Kent's evidence?

"You stated Saturday that you would not prosecute anyone unless evidence was furnished you that would convict. We are also sending a copy of this letter to the Attorney-General.

"Your truly,

"E. C. BOYNTON,
"WILLIAM H. COOLIDGE,
"PETER E. HOGAN."

Yellow Mustard for Sore Throat, Tonsilitis

Old-fashioned remedies are often the best. Yellow Mustard, in the form of plaster or poultice, has been used for generations for soreness, inflammations, congestions and swellings with most excellent results, but—it blistered.

Heat eases pain and Begy's Mustarine, made of pure yellow mustard, together with other pain relieving ingredients is just as hot, but quicker, cleaner, and more effective, and cannot blister.

When your throat is sore, when you have pleurisy, bronchitis or a pain-shooting chest cold, you can get speedy and lasting relief with more effective preparation, because heat eases pain—10 and 25 cents at druggists or by mail, A. C. Wells & Co., Leroy, N. Y.

Cotton Market Opening

New York, Feb. 5.—There was a renewal of heavy selling at the opening of the cotton market, with first prices unchanged to 40 points lower. The feature was a large sale in Liverpool, spot houses and Wall Street also sold freely, while support was scattered and feeble. Liverpool rallies came steadier than had been due. Sentiment was somewhat eased owing to international money conditions. At the end of twenty minutes the market was 10 to 60 points net lower, opening prices were: March, 34.60; May, 32.67; June, 31.95; July, 30.00; September, 28.80; October, 28.00; December, 27.80.

Chicago Grain Market

Chicago, Feb. 5.—Corn opened 1¼c to 2¼c lower. Oats were 5c to 1c lower. Provisions opened 10c to 25c lower. Wheat opened as follows: Corn—May, 1.31 to 1.31½; July, 1.27 to 1.28. Oats—May, 79; July, 72. Lard—May, 21.20 to 21.15; July, 21.70.

New York Sub-Treasury Gain

New York, Feb. 5.—The sub-treasury gained $1,000,000 from the banks today. Net withdrawing the cash not gain since Friday $3,270,000.

STEEL STOCKS ARE HIGHER

Motors Above Opening Level; Oils Were Unsteady All the Morning

By W. H. ROSS.

Financial Editor.

Stocks were irregular in New York at noon, with steels showing some strength, motors at about the opening level and oils rather weak. Prices were below the morning highest. The market was active, first hour transactions exceeding 200,000 shares. Demand sterling opened at $3.75¼, or ¼ under the closing quotation yesterday. Later in the morning it had advanced to $3.75¾.

A London cablegram says the British government has taken no official action in regard to cotton imports and that the decision to shut them off by the end of March is left to Lord Ford to stop importing until sterling exchange improves, as it has about 800,000 bales of cotton in warehouses and about 500,000 bales en route.

Principal stocks at noon included: Crucible, Punta Alegre and Stutz Motor. They were up a point or a point and more. Among the exceptions were Middle States Oil, Union Pacific, U. S. Rubber, Smith-Springfield and Hide & Leather preferred. They were off from one to two points.

Call money renewed at 17 per cent.

STRONG IN FIRST HOUR.

Covering by shorts and scattered demand from various quarters steadied stocks at the opening. Irregularity marked the price movement on first sales, but the undertone was better and offerings were greatly reduced. Steels showed early strength, particularly U. S. Steel and Republic, while Baldwin was higher. When it was found that supply of stocks was reduced enough demand was created to send prices up and the market was fairly strong before the end of an hour. Oils and motors had a weak start, but joined the forward movement. Crucible made the largest gain after erratic fluctuations early in the session. General Electric showed the largest loss and the greatest rally. Gains by a majority of issues were small.

SENTIMENT WAS BETTER.

While sentiment was far from cheerful, it was more hopeful than at the close yesterday. The rise in foreign exchange market started and it was found that demand sterling was quoted only a fraction of a point at the close on Wednesday pressure on stocks relaxed. The cotton market was weak. It is expected that some quarters that any move England may make to restrict importation of American cotton may be construed as a hint to Southern senators that it is business policy to accept Lodge reservations and get the peace treaty out of the way. Other bankers' opinion prevails that the present liquidating movement in the stock market is a forerunner of construction in speculation of all sorts. Falling security prices will be followed, it is believed, by a decline in commodity prices. In other words, it is thought that a reduction of living costs is about to begin.

Railroad Earnings

The coal strike is held partly responsible for the poor showing as to railroad earnings in the last two months of 1919. In order to guide the Railroad Administration reports a deficit of $111,000,000. New England roads made a poor showing, especially for December. The Boston & Maine deficit was $1,235,000. New Haven net amounted to $347,781 only. For Boston & Maine the government guarantee was $2,783,840, for New Haven it was $1,405,594.

January Financing

The total of financing by corporations last month was very large, although the money market was in an unsatisfactory condition. The total was $422,939,415 and about $43,082,900 was for retiring maturing securities. Financing by public utility corporations amounted to $253,324,415, by industrials to $46,- 515,000 and by railroads to $7,600,- 000 only.

Bay State Incorporations

In December last 311 corporations obtained charters in Massachusetts and last month 330 were granted. This is a high record total for both months.

Dividend Declarations

Merrimack Manufacturing Co. declared semi-annual dividend of 3½ per cent, and offered and quarterly dividend of 2 per cent, on common, both payable March 1 to stock of record Feb. 20.

Consolidated Corporation declared quarterly dividend of 1½, payable March 1 to stock of record Feb. 10.

Southern Pine Lbr. Co. declared quarterly dividend of 50c, payable March 1 to stock holders of record Feb. 10.

American Tobacco Co. declared quarterly 1¼ per cent, preferred dividend, payable April 1 to stock of record Feb. 20. Common dividend of 3 per cent. is payable March 1 to stock of record Feb. 14.

Shawmut Steamship Co. declared quarterly dividend of 65 cents per share, payable Feb 15 to stock of record Feb. 6.

STOCKS RALLY IN BOSTON

Trading Quiet on Exchange; Curb Issues Lower as a Rule

Weakness characterized the Boston market when the stock exchange got under way, but declines were not as large as distinguished the preceding opening and trading was attended by less tension. A better tone developed at once and prices began to advance. By the end of the morning, while the list was irregular, gains predominated by a considerable majority and the market could almost be called strong. Business was on a smaller scale than during the day before.

Boston & Maine, Waltham Watch and Massachusetts Gas advanced a point before noon, while smaller advances were made by New Haven, Venture, Reece Folding Machine, Swift & Co., and Swift International.

Packing stocks continued to be in demand, sales continued to be in small lots and auto accessory were also off as a class.

No stock was conspicuous either for strength, weakness or activity.

CUBA MARKET IS STEADY.

Trading was of usual character and volume on the Curb, the storm having little effect upon speculation on this exchange.

The majority of leaders were off and the undertone not of the best. Leaders in activity were Arizona Extension, Silver, Pilgrim and Atlas Tack. Strongest stocks around the opening included Arizona Extension, Atlas Tack, Texanada, Silver Reef, United Verde Extension and White Oil. Among those to sag at the start were Simms Petroleum, Gilland, Boston & Montana, Seven Metals and Arizona Tip Top.

At the end of hour gains included Verde Mines 3 cents and 2 cents, and White Oil 1¾ at 30. Among declines were Atlas Tack ¾ at 33, Arizona Tip Top 1 at 4, Gilland 1 at 1, and Simms Petroleum 2¾ at 41¾. Arizona Extension, Pilgrim and Silver Reef were then unchanged.

Value of Canadian Crops

The value of all field crops in Canada last year is estimated at $1,442,153,000, an increase of $78,- 217,500 over the 1918 total. The wheat yield amounted to $193,260,600 bushels.

New Safety Paper is 90c for a short time only. Estimate earnings are as follows: 1st year, 30%; 2nd year, 60%; 3rd year, 100% on $1.00 shares. Over 600 SKILLED WORKMEN have a definite object in view. They are determined to establish a new business which shall earn 100% or more for their investments, on safe and conservative lines. They cannot be done. We tell you that it is can; that it has been done over 200,000 times in this little old U. S.; and that we are the boys that can do it again. "But," they say, "you are taking a chance to lose." Rights! We are also taking 99 chances to win. If you never take a chance you never win anything. Nobody kicked about your taking a life and death chance in France. Why so much noise about taking a chance with a few shrivelled up dollars? If you want to make money, 99% safe, call and be shown

LIBERTY BONDS SELL AT VERY LOW PRICES

Considering that they have behind them the resources of the richest country in the world Liberty Bonds are selling at very low prices. They are an absolutely safe investment and yield high interest at current prices. Wise investors will hold to these bonds as long as possible, and add to their holdings as recessions. The liquidation which struck the stock market this week has effected Liberty Bonds as well as standard stocks. The following table shows how much lower these bonds are now on the stock market than when at their highest last year:

Eastern Massachusetts Societies Greet De Valera at Worcester Tomorrow

President Eamon De Valera of the Irish republic is enthused over the success of the bond certificate drive in the United States, according to State Chairman John F. Harrigan of the Massachusetts Council of the Friends of Irish Freedom, who today announced that the campaign in this section of the country will be from February 21 to 28.

The drive is for $10,000,000, and Massachusetts' quota is expected to be approximately $1,000,000.

APPEALS TO BAY STATE.

Each branch of the organization today received the following statement from Chairman Harrigan:

"The success of the bond certificate campaign for the Irish republic has exceeded the fondest hopes of President Eamon De Valera. The States of New York, New Hampshire and Ohio have gone over the million mark on large quotas. Massachusetts will secure its quota of $1,000,000 more easily than any other State in the Union.

"This is due to the fact that the Friends of Irish Freedom are near the scene of action and realize more keenly what a democratic form of government will mean in Ireland. The people of Massachusetts are broad-minded, liberty-loving people. This campaign is not a hyphenated one. It is entered into not solely by people of Irish descent, but by all liberty-loving citizens."

MEET DE VALERA TOMORROW.

The campaign organization of the Friends of Irish Freedom in 200 cities and towns in Massachusetts is nearing completion. Of this number, 150 cities in the eastern section of the State will join in Worcester's reception to President De Valera Friday.

The executive committees of the organization from these cities will meet President De Valera in the ballroom of the Bancroft Hotel, from 2 to 4 p. m. that day. The next day 100 cities and towns from the western part of the State will be received by President De Valera in the Kimball Hotel, Springfield, from 2 to 4 p. m.

This reception, from a local as well as a State-wide viewpoint, will be for President De Valera the greatest accorded him in America.

ROXBURY AND DORCHESTER.

In St. Joseph's school hall, Hulbert street, Roxbury, Monday, February 9, there will be a "Burning Question" produced in eight acts under the auspices of Rose Croix Council, Knights of Columbus.

Branch Robert Emmet of the Friends of Irish Freedom will hear Charles S. O'Connor of the Boston School Committee at a meeting in O'Connell Hall, Hibernian Building, Roxbury, Sunday evening. The public is invited. The annual whist and dancing party of the Association will be held in Hibernian Hall, Dudley street, Wednesday evening.

St. Mark's Catholic Club of Dorchester will hold a celebration in Whitten Hall, Codman square, Dorchester, Monday evening, the proceeds of which will defray the expenses of the new clubhouse on Ashmont street.

Owen Roe O'Neil Branch of the Friends of Irish Freedom meet tonight in Pope's Hall, Pleasant street, Dorchester. William H. O'Brien of the Public Service Commission will speak.

SPEAKERS FOR DRIVE.

Speakers needed by Irish organizations for different functions will be furnished by the Speakers' Bureau of the Friends of Irish Freedom. Quarters in Boston have been opened at Room No. 35, American House, in charge of Thomas Kelly. Branches at 34 State street, Boston. The bureau telephone is Haymarket 4120.

A business meeting of the Boston Gaelic School will be held tonight in Corinthian Hall, No. 1451 Washington street, South End.

WEDDED IN OPEN AIR AT ROXBURY SYNAGOGUE

A young Jewish couple were married in the open air in Roxbury with all the elaborate ritual prescribed by their ancient faith. The principals were Joseph Schmidt, Brandeis, aged twenty, a young rabbi, who came to America from his native Jerusalem only a short time ago, and Frida Gibel Horowitz, daughter of Grand Rabbi P. D. Horowitz. The marriage was performed on the grounds of the Congregation Rech Hamedrash Hodoyeh, Crawford street, Roxbury, by Grand Rabbi Horowitz.

EDITORIAL PAGE OF THE BOSTON AMERICAN FEBRUARY 5, 1920 BOSTON

Wonderful Reaction Against Anarchist Hysteria

Ex-Governor Samuel W. McCall has raised his powerful voice in protest not only against the attempted exclusion from the New York Assembly of the five elected Socialist members, but also in protest against the whole miserable pack of bayers at the moon who have given the world a false impression of the lack of confidence in the stability of our government by our own people and of the general lack of poise and good sense among us.

At a dinner given to the members of the Constitutional Convention which so distinguished itself during the war, Governor McCall referred to the attempted ouster of the New York Socialists as "A TRAVESTY UPON REPRESENTATIVE GOVERNMENT WHICH IS BEING WITNESSED TODAY IN ONE OF THE GREATEST STATES OF THE UNION."

Governor McCall denounced the sedition bills pending in Congress, which, under cover of the manufactured hysteria concerning Reds and Revolutionists, certain reactionary interests are attempting to make a law. He denounced them as:

That evil group of sedition bills now pending in Congress and which are threatening the liberties of the people.

One would think that the plight of Russia, buried as she is under one revolution piled upon another, was due to centuries of free discussion and an excess of political principle, when in truth we know that it is due to repression, and that the closing of the very safety valve in government has resulted in the explosion of State. To prevent in America a thing that has happened in Russia, some of our stage patriots are proposing here the very thing that has brought about chaos here.

Macaulay declared that a little turbulence was the rainbow of the State, and while it was a sign of a passing tempest it was a sign also that there would be no deluge. They are nothing less than the prophets of the ancient Russian system who would in any degree substitute here that political prescription and repression of Russia for the long cherished freedom of our country.

What a wonderful and thrilling reaction the country has seen in the last two weeks against the utterly un-American heretic hunting that threatened to throw us back into the dark ages and made us look silly and childish in the eye of the stranger. Governor McCall has the most distinguished company in America in his protests against the further attempts to excite the American people by fancy tales of Bolshevism and Anarchy and L. W. Wilm fit only for the nursery.

Obeying Mandate to 'Give Roads What They Want'

Since the two railroad bills went to conference the doors of secrecy have closed about them, but we are told the conferees have come to one important agreement—"that there should be a definite percentage of return fixed for the railroads."

A statement so general offers no real information. How fixed? There is the crux of the whole problem.

Prior to 1907 the railroads kept books as they pleased. A few scaled down book value to less than real value, and the capitalization of these is today less than cost of replacement.

But many railroads wrote into their investment account all kinds of inflations. So common was this practice prior to the enactment of the Hepburn Act of 1906 that Mr. Van Oss, an investment banker in London, sent here in the nineties to see if British money could safely be invested in American railroad securities, reported as his conclusion after a careful investigation—

First, That the average amount originally received in actual value for American railway bonds probably did not exceed 67 per cent.;

Second, That the original investor in American railway stocks certainly paid no more, on the average, than 10 per cent. of their face value, and probably less.

This applied to earlier days, but many railroads never cured the defect or wholly abated the practice, so that the so-called property investment of many railroads is still grossly inflated, and yet that "property investment" is to be made the basis of demands for a great increase in the freight and passenger rates.

No one knows the real values of our railroads, not even the railroad presidents themselves.

Congress in 1913 ordered an inquiry to be made into every item entering into the physical value, down to the last bolt, nut and tie. But this work has been completed as to five small railroads only. Those in charge of it do not promise the total figures for all railroads within three years, after which, if the new information is used as a basis of rate making, there will doubtless be years of litigation.

So the reported decision of the conferees to fix a definite percentage of return means nothing more than that if their bill becomes law somebody representing the government will have to make a guess at what the railroads are worth and write rates on that guess.

It will be legislation not on facts, but on surmises.

Never has so vital a subject been handled by the American Congress so timidly. Recall, briefly, the chronology.

The Interstate Commerce Committee of the Senate held its first meeting on May 19 last, and named a sub-committee of five to draft a bill.

This sub-committee met from time to time to take secret advice, but held no public hearings. It reported to the full committee September 2.

The full committee held public hearings on special features of its tentative bill, but no general hearings to develop the underlying facts. Its completed bill came into the Senate in December and was rushed through with only perfunctory debate in ten days.

Procedure in the House was similarly hasty. It is doubtful whether one representative in ten had even read the bill before he was required to vote upon it. The discussion in the House was superficial and unenlightening.

Now a conference committee behind closed doors is trying to knit two widely variant bills together under pressure of notice from the President that if some law is not enacted prior to February 29 he will turn the railroads back on March 1 anyway.

Work done under such conditions cannot be well done.

It will have to be done over again and the cost of our vacillating policy will be stupendous.

If the railroads were to be continued as now operated until the Congress had time to formulate a really statesmanlike policy, no increase of rates would be necessary. There would be no increase in the cost of living and no owner of a railway security would suffer.

Senator Cummins of Iowa, chairman of the Senate Committee, is a very able man, who has always dealt with the railroads from the public viewpoint. But he is now helpless because he is under a mandate from his party, in which reactionary leaders are dominant, to give the railroads what they want and do it quickly.

SAM, I'M A POOR MAN, IF YOU COULD LET THAT INTEREST STAND UNTIL I GET ON MY FEET AGAIN, I, EH,— WHAT HAVE YOU BEHIND THE CURTAIN, JOHN,?
JOHN BULL

More Truth Than Poetry

Few People Are Satisfied

By S. E. KISER

THE poor man wishes he had wealth,
The old man wishes he had youth;
The sick man wishes he had health,
The liar wants to hear the truth.
Perhaps the frog beside the pool
Is envious of the bird that flies,
But have you ever known a fool
Who had a longing to be wise?

THE weak man wishes to be strong,
The fat man wishes to be lean;
The short man wishes to be long,
The cook would like to be a queen;
The blind man wishes he could see,
The mirthless man may hunt for mirth,
But no Kentuckian would be
From any other State on earth.

IT is the way of humankind
To wish for things the fates withhold;
The timid man would like to find
Some talisman to make him bold;
Mike wishes he could change his Mike
To Henry, John or Launcelot,
But where's the Englishman who'd like
To be a Welshman or a Scot?

YOU, too, no doubt, have met brunettes
Who tried to charm with yellow hair;
The man who works sometimes forgets
That loafing doesn't lessen care;
Men have a longing, as a rule,
For talents other men possess,
But have you ever seen a fool
Who didn't like his foolishness?

Sims Sided With British in Halting Mine Barrage

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.

ADMIRAL SIMS has criticised Secretary of the Navy Daniels and the admirals who constituted the General Staff of the Navy during the war for not letting him direct the entire naval operations of the navy from his position in London.

But the General Naval Staff at Washington had ideas of their own concerning the handling of the American Navy and so far as it was proper to act independently of the British Navy they proposed to exercise their own judgment and not the judgment of Admiral Sims. So when Admiral Sims sent a suggestion to Washington they passed upon it according to their own judgment. When they agreed with Admiral Sims they carried out the suggestion. When they did not agree they did not carry out the suggestion. On the other hand, the General Staff found Admiral Sims too often unwilling, as a subordinate officer, to carry out the suggestions of his superiors.

A very glaring instance of dilatoriness and opposition from Sims, because of British slowness to take to new ideas quickly is shown in the building of the famous North Sea mine barrage.

This was the most deadly blow struck at the German submarine menace during the whole war by any of the allied navies. It was the greatest mine-laying project ever known. It was conceived and executed entirely by our American naval staff sitting in Washington, against whom Admiral Sims has lodged his querulous complaints.

Proposed by Staff

This extraordinary counter-attack against the submarines stretched 250 miles from the Orkney Islands to Norway. It was proposed by our Naval Staff immediately after we entered the war. Early in April, 1917, the Bureau of Ordnance, of which Rear Admiral Ralph Earle was chief, made out a memorandum setting forth the plans in detail. Admiral Benson, chief of naval operations, approved these plans. The general board of the navy and Secretary Daniels also approved, as did President Wilson. Thereupon it was sent to London, to Admiral Sims, and by him laid before the British Admiralty.

The Admiralty disapproved the idea, and Sims thereupon expressed his personal opinion that the whole thing was impracticable. But our Navy Department insisted and persisted and, after six months of delay in London, British consent to co-operate was finally obtained. But Sims seemed greatly annoyed that the General Staff, consisting of admirals of the navy and the Secretary of the Navy and the President, insisted that anything was practicable that the British Admiralty had not suggested or of which it had not approved. It was not until the Autumn of 1917 that the British finally gave their consent, although the United States Navy stood ready for months to begin operations.

After the gigantic undertaking began to show results, Admiral Sims was prompt to praise the idea and the work, but at no time did anybody learn from anything that he said that he had disapproved of it because the British Admiralty showed no enthusiasm for it and because it came from an American source.

It was a tremendous undertaking, the greatest of its kind ever conceived in the history of war. It involved the laying of over 70,000 great mines in a field 250 miles long and from ten to twenty-five miles wide and 300 feet in depth. It was called the North Sea mine barrage because it partook of the nature of an artillery barrage, in that it covered the ground with scientific completeness.

Made in America

Of the 70,100 mines laid, 56,600 were made in America and were laid by American vessels. The British laid 13,652. The Americans thus manufactured, transported across 3,000 miles of water and laid 80 per cent. of the mines in this barrage, which is acknowledged to have done more to destroy the morale of the German navy and to have brought about the mutiny of the German sailors, which in turn produced the revolution and ended the war so suddenly, than any one project of the war. The idea was wholly American, and 80 per cent. of its execution was American, and it had to be crowbarred into the British naval understanding while Admiral Sims played flunky to the British slow-wits.

Neither Captain R. R. Belknap nor Rear Admiral Strauss, former chief of ordnance, has received public praise due them for their splendid work in executing the plans for this great naval operation.

Nor, indeed, have the General Board of the Navy and those officers who bravely remained at home out of the limelight, away from the exciting, interesting adventures so dear to fighting men, received the praise that this project which they originated ought to bring them.

Woman Tells of Mexican Barbarity

"WELL feed you to the alligators," said the rebel chieftain to Mrs. Sturgis. "Gringo meat is good for alligators."

Dragged into slavery by Mexican bandits, Mrs. Charles Sturgis, wife of a Washington dentist, spent eight months in frightful captivity. Her story, appearing in the Magazine Section of the Boston Sunday Advertiser, is a revelation of actual atrocities committed across the border. Revealing conditions more horrible than our wildest conceptions of barbaric cruelty, Mrs. Sturgis predicts our intervention in Mexican turmoil.

"That eventually we shall be compelled to restore order is beyond peradventure of doubt," she declares. "When that happens the slinkers and slackers who condemn the idea today will utter loud and patriotic ejaculations. In the meantime delay is costing the lives of innocent Americans, and is the cause of untold human suffering."

Her observations are first hand, and well worth reading.

"I married you—but not your dogs," Eileen Clarke, in a recent British divorce suit, won her decree on contention that her husband loved his dogs more than he did her.

It is an unusual complaint that won the English wife her divorce. Attorneys asserted that it was without precedent. Yet a recent New York wedding shows surprising parallels in an interesting romance of Long Island's fashionable sporting set. There's a Yankee marriage, too, that's gone literally to the "bow-wows."

A tale of tumultuous loves and barking canines is in the Magazine Section of the Advertiser.

Mlle. Amazar, pretty soprano and sweetheart of the Russian baritone, Baklanoff, tells more of her love adventure. Recalling the strange love affair of Caruso and Emma Trentini, Mlle. Amazar quotes an interesting little exchange of scathing denunciations exchanged between the famous singers. As she reviews the various passions of the famous lovers of her profession, the little singer makes sage observations. Her story in the Sunday Advertiser is as intimate as it is entertaining.

The irresistible fascinations of a Fifth avenue modiste, with four sweethearts, has brought on complications which puzzle the courts. Mlle. Lucille Martinieri has two husbands, a forgotten ex-fiance and an ardent lover. These four furnish the troubles of the plot. They even tell, ungallantly—for some men do kiss and tell—of other victims of her irresistible charms. Read all about her engrossing affairs de coeur in the Sunday Advertiser.

Letters to the Editor

Truthful and Candid

Editor Boston American:

It is only today that I read your truthful, candid and "to the point" editorial in the special edition of the Boston American of January 31.

I congratulate you particularly on that one, and generally on all your fearless editorials, with best wishes for the future productions of your gifted and trenchant pen.

Railroad Service

Editor Boston American:

As a shipyard worker writing for hundreds of others, would you kindly allow me to emphatically protest against the service given by the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R.? in war times, when labor was scarce, our service was wellnigh perfect, but the last few weeks have been about the limit even before the storms. Many of us think there is a "Sime" higher up who is trying to show that the government cannot run the railroads.

Paper Blankets

Editor Boston American:

Paper keeps heat in. Three or four large newspapers, spread between the coverings of a bed, will give as much warmth as an extra blanket. In these times of cold weather and high prices, this is a secret worth knowing.

ALICE STONE BLACKWELL.

Need the "O. K." Day

Editor Boston American:

Do you think it just to take from the postal employes, when prices are soaring sky-high, what is known to them as "O. K." Day? Of course, some in the service are not forced to use this method of getting their money every week, or four times a month, but to men not getting the full amount yearly this "O. K." Day was a decided help.

Wife Beating, $25.00 Advertisements Instruct The Howling Radical 100,000,000 Years Left

—By Arthur Brisbane—

Copyright, 1920.

Reading advertisements is not time wasted. A good idea of what was going on in Rome was to be found in advertisements 2,000 years ago that Caesar put up on the walls in his fight against the Senate. Modern civilization is revealed when you read an advertisement by R. B. McAllaily, justice of the peace at Louisville, Miss. "To the citizens of the Fourth District, this is to notify you that when you commit any misdemeanor come to my office, plead guilty and pay for misdemeanors, from $5.00 up; whipping your wife from $25.00 up. (Signed) R. B. McAllaily, Justice of the Peace."

You realize that reasonable rates for beating your wife are needed when you read Near Justice McAllaily's advertisement, a news item headed, "Bites Chunk Out of Wife's Arm."

All this would seem hopeless to a visitor from a better planet, but it is not. A few centuries ago there was a regular rate of fines for murder, and in England in the last century wife beating was legal, if the husband used a stick "no bigger round than his thumb."

The trouble with our delightful civilization is this: We have at the top the brutality of success, governing ignorantly regardless of its future safety.

We have, at the bottom, the brutality of failure, protesting and growing ignorantly, unconvincingly, inconsistently.

To 99 per cent. of so-called "violent radicals" and their followers, who wonder at their consistent impotency, it should be enlightening to read Heine's description of the English radical, Cobbett.

Heinie, himself a radical, hated autocracy, plutocracy, all injustice, which he fought through life. He detested also the brutality of the average radical, the jealousy and hate that made his criticism useless.

Thus Heinie describes the radical:

"While I translate Cobbbett's words, the man himself comes bodily before my mind's eye as I saw him at that uproarious dinner at the Crown and Anchor Tavern, with his scolding red face and his radical laugh, in which venomous hate mingles with a mocking exultation at his enemies, surely approaching downfall.

"He is a chained cur, who fails with equal fury upon everyone whom he does not know, often bites the best friend of the house in his calves, barks incessantly, and just because of this incessantness of his barking cannot get listened to, even when he barks at a real thief.

"Therefore the distinguished thieves who plunder England do not think it is necessary to throw the growling Cobbett a bone to stop his mouth. This makes the dog furiously savage, and he shows all his hungry teeth. Poor old Cobbett, England's dog. I have no love for thee, for every vulgar nature my soul abhors; but thou touchest me to the inmost soul of pity, as I see how thou straineest in vain to break loose and to get at those thieves, who make off with their booty before the very eyes, and mock at the fruitless springs and thine impotent howling."

So the violent radical looked to Heine in England one hundred years ago. So he looks to you in the United States today. His howling is so constant that few pay any attention and "the distinguished thieves who plunder America do not think it necessary to throw him a bone to stop his mouth."

The radicals howl, and now, as a hundred years ago, "the thieves make off with their booty before their very eyes, mock at their fruitless springs and their impotent howling."

One kind of brutal ignorance at the top, serenely robbing, forgets that once in so often the radical dog breaks his chain, gets loose and tears everything to pieces, without doing himself much good.

Another kind of brutality at the bottom is even worse because it is even more ignorant with its complaining, based on envy rather than on any constructive sense of justice.

Fortunately there is no hurry, no cause for final discouragement. What we call human beings have lived on this earth fifty or a hundred thousand years, at most have been able to read, write and record thought for less, probably, than twenty thousand years.

Our earth, on the other hand, as scientists can demonstrate, has been in existence travelling around the sun fully one hundred million years and it will last as long again. Plenty of time for improvement in the hundred million years ahead of us. Before the end of the first million years current evils may have ceased to exploit ignorance and ignorance as we know it may have disappeared.
